

DRY LAW MAIN ISSUE IN CONGRESS THIS WINTER

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1929, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—(CPA)—With the dry law in congress arguing that the prohibition law is not being vigorously enforced and with the wet holding protest meetings against the coast guard for too vigorous enforcement, the evidence is multiplying that the biggest single issue in congress this winter will be law enforcement.

Senator Fess of Ohio, an ardent dry, has suggested that Senator Borah lead the joint committee of congress to inquire into methods of law enforcement. The coast guard is unmoved by protests, declaring that it will insist upon rum runners halting when so commanded.

The attorney general is conducting a survey of the activities of the various district attorneys with a view to determining just which ones shall be replaced. It is indicated that members of congress were in possession of much of the information which the attorney general has with reference to irregularities in the offices of the corps of federal attorneys.

There are 91 districts and some of them have assistant United States attorneys. Five of the United States attorneys have resigned "due to unsatisfactory conditions in their offices" and three have retired for reasons of their own and two were not reappointed when their terms expired.

SCENT SHAKEUP
There are 13 United States attorneys whose terms expire before Feb. 1, but no nominations have been made. This is taken to mean that a shakeup is going on but Senator Borah is quoted as saying that it was not sufficiently extensive. One

POSTAL OFFICIALS
DUE IN CITY SOON

Assignment to Examine Candidates for Postmaster-ship Expected Shortly

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Assignment of Civil Service and Post Office department officials to visit Appleton to examine the nine candidates for appointment as postmaster there will be made in a few days.

A heavy rush of examinations of prospective prohibition agents has prevented earlier assignment of a Civil Service examiner to visit Appleton. A strenuous and successful effort was made by the Civil Service Commission to complete its examination of candidates for appointment in the prohibition service by the end of 1929. This kept most of the examiners busy.

That over, the commission is seeking to speed up pending examinations for appointment as postmaster. The candidates who have filed application for appointment to the $3,800 job as postmaster at Appleton are: Mayor Albert C. Rule, George L. Cullen, Elmer D. Scott, Henry H. White, Earl W. Bates, Emory A. Greunke, Leonard E. Trexell, Charles D. Thompson, and Harry J. Kahler.

DAMP POWDER BURNS, FAILS TO EXPLODE

Kenosha—(CP)—Dampness of three kegs of powder probably prevented what might have been a serious explosion at the Hercules Powder company, near here, when a pellet-making machine ignited the three kegs of powder, which because of dampness burned instead of exploding. The building housing the pellet machine which operates automatically, was burned, despite efforts of Sam Davidson, 30, a foreman, who braved danger and attempted to fight the fire with water. The burned building is about 200 yards from the main plant.

PICK 6 ENTRY PORTS
FOR AIRPLANE TRAVEL

Washington—(CP)—A great increase in international airplane travel caused the treasury today to designate six ports of entry for international aircraft. Three were Canadian border and three on the Mexican border.

OFFICER KILLED IN GUN BATTLE

NEAR DEATH AFTER BLAST AT FREMONT

Second Victim in Peculiar Explosion Loses Left Arm at Elbow

Two men were injured, one perhaps fatally, in an explosion in the Fulton and Herrick blacksmith shop at Fremont about 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The injured: W. D. Hazen, 70, North Fond du Lac, skull fracture and severe bruise about right side of the face, caused by penetrating steel.

The accident occurred as Herrick was heating a large drill preparatory to sharpening it. The drill, used in quarry work, suddenly exploded, scattering pieces of steel throughout the building.

Hazen was standing near Herrick watching the progress. The men were immediately taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Two theories were advanced to explain the explosion. Some thought the fragments of dynamite might have been on the drill, which was about five feet long. Others pointed out that the drill was hollow, and that the heat might have caused gases in the drill to expand.

Herrick has a wife and six children. Hazen was visiting the Herrick family.

DUNDAS MAN FINED AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Charles Fulcer Arrested
After He Backs into Office
At Kaukauna

Charles Fulcer, Dundas, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Saturday morning when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving.

The Dundas man was arrested Friday night by Officer Harold Engstrom after he had backed into the office of the Farmer's Elevator and Produce company on First and broke several windows. Fulcer was taken to the police station at Kaukauna where he was held all night. He was brought to court Saturday morning by Police Chief R. H. McCarty.

Fulcer was unable to pay his fine immediately and Judge Berg granted him a short stay of sentence to permit him to attempt to raise the money.

WALL COLLAPSES, AT LEAST 1 MAN KILLED

New York—(CP)—At least one man was killed and four injured in the collapse today of a wall and floor of a building weakened by a recent fire from which they were clearing debris. One man was still imprisoned in the wreckage several hours after the crash.

The men were members of a crew of laborers who were clearing the building of waste paper and charred timbers. They were carried on down through two floors when the wall caved in on them.

Two of the three extricated alive from the wreckage were said to be dying with broken bones and possibly fractured skulls. No sound could be heard from the man still buried in the wreckage and it was believed he also was dead.

ZASTROW FACES NEW SENTENCE TO PRISON

Waukesha—(CP)—A former prisoner at Waupun who killed a "bird" because he said, he "turned yellow" today faced renewed confinement on a second degree murder charge.

Making a revised confession, Herman Fred Zastrow said he killed Louis J. Stricker because Stricker, a cellmate at the state prison a few years ago, refused to go through with a holdup job.

On the basis of this confession, Dist. Atty. Herman R. Salen lodged a second degree murder charge against Zastrow, who will plead guilty in circuit court Monday. He will be sent to Waupun immediately.

SMUGGLED MATCH IS BLAMED FOR BLAST

Oklahoma City—(CP)—After an extensive investigation Miller D. Hay, chief state mine inspector, had decided the explosion of gas in the old Town coal mine of North McAlester, which on Dec. 17 killed 61 miners, was caused by lighting of a match smuggled into the mine in defiance of a state law.

Seek Cause Of Fire At U. S. Capitol

Flames Are Beaten With Small Loss

Damage Only $3,000 but Officials Are Worried Over
Source of Fire

Washington—(CP)—Preliminary investigation today left as an open question the cause of the fire which last night sent flames leaping around the dome of the capitol and threw Washington into a furore of excitement.

With his inquiry incomplete, David S. Lynn, architect in charge of public buildings, said all of the information he had been able to obtain had not convinced him as to the origin of the blaze.

"The fire was caused either by spontaneous combustion or somebody smoking in the artist's studio," Lynn said, after questioning Charles Moberly, the artist and Samuel Hall, a former capitol policeman, who was with Moberly when the blaze started.

Washington—(CP)—The tongues of red flame that yesterday evening leaped through the roof of the south-west wing of the capitol and licked at the side of the huge white dome today had left only a small blackened spot on the side of the building.

The vividness of the fire, the shrieking sirens of fire apparatus, first thoughts that century old records, possibly the nearly nation-old structure itself, might be endangered had faded this morning and fast were becoming a part of the bulging history of Capitol Hill.

Officials were more concerned over the cause of the blaze than the damage wrought. They said the loss would amount to about $3,000; that the fire in no way would interfere with the convening of congress Monday from the holiday recess; and that such documents and papers as were charred or water soaked were not a part of the permanent records.

The blaze, far more spectacular than that which destroyed part of the executive office of the White House Christmas eve, originated in a room occupied by Carl Moberly, an artist who has decorated many of the long corridors in both the senate and house wings.

Moberly was rescued from the room in a partly suffocated condition. He was administered first aid.

YOUNG COMMUNISTS HELD AT CAPITAL

Stage Demonstration in Front of Mexican Embassy in Washington

Washington—(CP)—A party of 50 youngsters, declaring themselves members of the Communist party, today made a demonstration in front of the Mexican embassy demanding the release of 39 members of the party claimed to be held prisoners in Mexico.

Within 20 minutes after the demonstration began the entire party had been arrested, placed in patrol wagons and taken to a police station.

Members of the party included both Negroes and white persons. They said they were from Baltimore and Washington.

The demonstration consisted principally of short cheers and songs demanding the release of the Communist prisoners and condemning President-Elect Ortiz Rubio of Mexico. President Hoover and the present government in Mexico. Banners carried by the group bore lines saying "Hoover and Rubio, both enemies of the workers." Others said: "Down with American imperialism in Mexico."

U. S. ATTORNEY CLEARS COAST GUARD SLAYERS

Providence, R. I. (CP)—United States Attorney Henry M. Boss, Jr., today issued a statement in which he completely exonerated the crew of the coast guard patrol boat 229 from any blame in the killing of three men aboard the rum runner Black Duck, last Sunday, and said he would not produce the crew before the state inquest being held at Newport. As a result, Attorney General Oscar L. Holzen, stated he would be forced to go through the formalities of interstate summons to get the coast guardmen to testify before the coroner.

Mr. Boss declared his information from investigating government departments showed that the Black Duck came upon the patrol boat off the Dumbings light buoy in Narragansett bay Sunday morning, and tried to escape after the boat hailed her with her horn and lights, and the patrol opened fire, he said, the Black Duck veered and was raked from stern to pilot house.

VARE TO OPEN NEW RACE FOR SENATE SEAT

Says Right of State to Select Its Own Senator Must Be Upheld

Philadelphia—(CP)—William S. Vare announced today that he was still a candidate for the United States senate and that his name would appear on the Republican primary ballot in May.

Mr. Vare, who was refused a seat in the senate last month on the ground that his primary expenses in the senatorial campaign of 1929 were excessive, made the statement as he was waiting here for a train for Florida.

The announcement was prompted by widely published reports that he might not be a candidate for reelection because of his health.

After his rejection by the senate Mr. Vare issued a statement that he was in the fight for a seat in the senate to the finish. When Governor Fisher appointed Joseph R. Grundy to the vacant seat, Mr. Vare announced that the gubernatorial action did not change his plans.

"There is nothing I can add," Mr. Vare said today, "to the statement I made on the train returning from Washington and the statement I made when I was rejected by the senate for getting nomination petitions signed last Wednesday, Feb. 19, and the last day for mailing them is March 31."

"As I leave today I am giving my friends throughout Pennsylvania, at their request and due to numerous letters and telegrams I have received full authority to circulate and have my petition signed throughout the state."

"I feel that the right of the great state of Pennsylvania to select its own senator must be upheld. The placing of my name on the primary ballot will give the people of Pennsylvania an opportunity to uphold the constitution and the rights of the sovereign state of Pennsylvania."

THIRD PERSON DIES IN BOMBING OUTRAGE

Sent Pleasant, Md.—(CP)—The death of Dorothy Hall, 4, today brought the list of victims from a bomb exploded in the home of John S. Hall on New Year's day to three and at the same time it became known that a man was in jail at Marlboro, Md., in connection with the case. No charges have been placed against him.

Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, young bride and sister of Dorothy, and a baby, Samuel Hall, also received fatal injuries in the blast. The boy, who was wrapped in the arms of a neighbor for Mrs. Brady. Thinking it was a belated Christmas present, members of the family gathered around as she opened it.

KOHLER'S PILOT IS FACING $4,000 SUIT

Manitowoc—(CP)—Melvin Thompson, Gov. Walter J. Kohler's personal airplane pilot, today was named in a $4,000 damage suit filed in circuit court by Frank Scholaski, local airport manager and pilot. Scholaski alleges that Thompson destroyed one of Scholaski's airplanes, and he seeks payment for the wrecked plane.

MAN AND SON BURNED TO DEATH IN HOME

Lenoir, N. C.—(CP)—Lige Pratt, 35, and his son, James, were burned to death here early today when fire from an oil stove enveloped their home. Mrs. Pratt was severely burned.

Princess Marie Jose Bids Farewell To Her People

Brussels—(CP)—Speeding over a secret route to avoid enemies of her and Prince Charles arrived. Betrothed, Princess Marie Jose today was on her way to Rome to become the bride of Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne. Her special train should reach Rome Monday. The wedding is set for Wednesday.

The Belgian royal party, in the special train, left here at 9:40 p. m. last night. An hour later it entered France at Jeumont-Atellon, and proceeded toward Bastle, Switzerland, by way of Charleville, Digne, and Nancy. A shorter and more difficult route was abandoned because of the danger of anti-Fascist activities.

Extraordinary police precautions marked Marie's departure. Police cleared the railway station and surrounding streets before the royal party, consisting of King Albert, Queen Elizabeth, Princess Marie

WANT PERSHING TO RUN AGAINST SEN. NORRIS

Lincoln, Neb.—(CP)—A movement to draft General John J. Pershing for U. S. senator on the Republican ticket in opposition to George W. Norris became known here today at the close of a conference in the offices of Mark Woods, well known Nebraska business and political leader.

General Pershing himself, who has been in Lincoln over the holidays but departs tonight for Washington, expressed surprise at the existence of such a movement.

"You can't keep your friends from talking about you," he said. "It is the first I've heard about it." Asked if he would refuse an offer of the candidacy, he replied: "As I say, I have not given it any consideration."

Mr. Woods said he has been discussing the matter with people all over the state for thirty days or so. Nine years ago he was one of the two principal boosters in Nebraska for Pershing as president.

HOLD SUSPECT IN TROLLEY BOMBINGS

"Jitney" Driver Accused of Placing Explosive on Street Car Tracks

New Orleans—(CP)—Vincent Vinca, a 23-year-old driver of a "jitney," was under arrest here today charged with violating a federal injunction protecting the property of the street car operators. Sixty-four trolleys have been dynamited since the beginning of a carmen's strike last summer.

Police said two persons whose names were not disclosed had reported seeing Vinca place a package on car tracks a few minutes before a trolley was bombed two months ago.

Despite a recent announcement of Superintendent of Police Theodore Ray that suspects would be arrested under an old state bombing law providing the death penalty, such charges had not been placed against Vinca today.

Ray has expressed the opinion that "jitney" operators have been "directly or indirectly responsible for the bombings."

Police said Vinca told them he had not dynamited a trolley, but merely had placed torpedoes on the tracks.

He is the second suspect to be arrested since the bombings began. One person was taken into custody several months ago but subsequently was released.

LINDBERGH WANTS NO STATUE OF HIMSELF

St. Louis, Mo.—(CP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today sent the following telegram from Clovis, N. M. to Mayor Victor J. Miller:

"In confirmation of our telephone conversation, I deeply appreciate the honor of your suggestion, but I sincerely request that no movement be started toward the erection of a memorial to me."

Mayor Miller had proposed a popular movement for a statue of Col. Lindbergh in a park here. Passing through St. Louis this week, Colonel Lindbergh told the mayor over the telephone that he preferred to be known here simply as "the boy who flew the air mail."

"I suppose this ends the matter," said the mayor after reading the telegram.

OUTLOOK FOR INDUSTRY IS FOUND GOOD

Hoover Pleased With Results of Drive to Boost Construction

Washington—(CP)—President Hoover contemplated today—and found encouraging—the results of his drive to boost construction and improvement work in an effort to absorb unemployment.

Three major lines of American business submitted a budget of $4,700,000,000 for 1930. This, with many items still to be added, gave promise that the total to be expended during the year would be larger than that for 1929.

The largest amount was that of public utilities and telephone companies, but the total of public works continued to grow with 19 states untraced in the survey and 13 others only partially covered. Sixteen states were complete.

The public utility and telephone groups fixed their estimate at $2,100,000,000; public works, including those of the federal government, reached $1,550,000,000, and railroads set a total of $1,050,000,000.

ALL DATA BY MIDMONTH
Surveys for the state move toward the White House daily and the president said he expected they would be completed by the middle of the month.

In addition to these, Mr. Hoover pointed out that this total did not include industrial and factory improvements or building construction. A special committee was set up at the December conference of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to make a survey of the prospects in these fields.

The effect of the drive, the chief executive was told by the steel companies, already is beginning to show in their orders which already have grown to a volume beyond their expectations.

While the president was disclosing the results of the drive, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States said in a statement that no loss of momentum had been shown in the business reports to the national business survey conference committee.

The American Federation of labor in its monthly business survey said today that employment probably would be low for the first few months of the year, but would improve later.

ARREST GANG LEADER IN DETROIT SHOOTING

Detroit—(CP)—Peter Licavoli, reputed leader of the "River gang" which police link with the shooting Thursday of Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the police crime and bomb squad, was arrested for investigation today shortly after he had been released under a $10,000 bond by federal authorities who have sought him on a bribery charge.

Licavoli was surrendered to Gregory H. Frederick, chief assistant United States district attorney, by his counsel. He is charged with bribing a customs border patrol inspector.

Arrest of Licavoli in connection with the shooting of Garvin and the subsequent wounding of an 11-year-old school girl who was passing by at the time was said by police today to bring into the case practically all those claimed to be "river gang" members.

34 SAVED, 5 MISSING AS SHIP IS GROUNDED

Aalesund, Norway—(CP)—Thirty-four members of the crew of the Dutch steamer Hottin were rescued today when the vessel went aground and broke in half near start. Five of the crew were still missing and it was feared that they had been drowned.

Miss Janet Elvick, 19, high school senior, was shot and seriously wounded last night by a man and robbed of $2. Two hours later Mrs. Mae Simpson, 29, was attacked and robbed of her coat and money. Although the women live on opposite sides of the city they gave identical descriptions of a young man who is believed to have shot Beatrice Gallagher, 23, a maid, last Dec. 23 and Mrs. Mary Shock, 29, three days later, and to have attacked another woman Dec. 6.

Miss Elvick is in a critical condition today. She told police she was on her way to a home where she cared for children after school hours when the gunman grabbed her and demanded her money. She said she had none. He fired, went through her purse as she collapsed in the snow, and fled.

Try To Raise Wreckage Of 2 Airplanes

Hallock Rouse, One of Victims, Believed Former Appleton Resident

Information received here yesterday and today has led to the conviction that the Hallock Rouse who lost his life in the airplane tragedy off the coast of Santa Monica Thursday afternoon was the son of the late Rev. Fred T. Rouse, formerly pastor of First Congregational church here.

The young man, who was about 24 years of age, had been engaged in the oil business on the Pacific coast but retained his interest in aviation, acquired during the war when he was an aviation instructor for the United States government.

The Rouse family came to Appleton in 1929 when Hallock was about four years of age. During the war the family lived at Omaha and Hallock entered an aviation training camp where he became proficient as a flier and was an instructor until near the end of the conflict. He was awaiting to embark on a boat for service overseas when the war ended.

He went to California where he married and later entered the oil business. His father died about two years ago and his mother is living at Northampton, Mass.

Santa Monica, Calif.—(CP)—Efforts to raise the wreckage of two motion picture camera planes, believed to hold the bodies of seven of the ten men killed in a midair collision, will be resumed in the 315 feet of water off Point San Vicente.

The trawler Salt had its grappling hook fastened to the wreckage, while coast guard, naval and privately owned vessels will aid in attempts to raise the planes to the surface.

The wreckage was discovered yesterday by the target tender Daisy M. of Redondo Beach, and the speedboat Diana, from Venice, which were dragging the Pacific ocean bottom for miles off shore. Navy airplanes flew over the scene while nearer shore a huge fleet of small craft criss-crossed with dragging hooks.

The Daisy M. first struck the wreckage and signalled to the other craft after her hook had been hauled in and was found to show traces of red paint, the color of the planes. Later an airplane vessel and struts were raised. The planes, which fell 2,500 feet in flames were found 100 feet apart on the ocean bottom.

They are believed to contain the bodies of Kenneth Hawks, film director, Ross Clark and Hallock Rouse; John George Eastman; Otto Jordan; Henry Johnson; and Tom Harris, members of the Fox Film corporation's mechanical staff. The bodies of Max Gold, assistant director, and Ben Frankel and Conrad Willis, cameramen, were recovered soon after the tragedy had ended an effort to picture a thrilling scene in a film story based on the disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Mexican financier from a plane over the English channel in 1923.

The depth of the water at the spot where the wreckage was located balked efforts of divers to recover the bodies. Divers cannot operate with safety below 100 feet. Efforts to raise the wreckage also proved unsuccessful. It was discovered that apparatus on the boats at the scene was not strong enough to lift the plane and their heavy engines. Workmen said it probably would take hours to lift the mass far enough to determine whether the bodies are inside.

Inquiry into the causes of the collision are under way.

FIRE DROPS ARREST TWO AFTER HOLDUP

Chicago—(CP)—Two young policemen, Frank J. Kolgraf and John Lamb, were discharged by the necessity of financial reimbursement in the city government, yet knowing they were through, they finished with glory.

Kolgraf already had his "notice" him at the station today. Last night, riding around, they saw a man run from a N. Clark restaurant, carrying a small box. They knew it was robbery and gave chase.

They caught one man and from him learned the name of the other whom they later arrested. Both prisoners confessed and the loot was recovered.

At the station the policemen turned in their uniforms and their stars.

ASSAILANT IS SHOT DOWN BY DANE SHERIFF

Man Ordered to Leave State Starts Fight at Hotel in Mazomanie

MENACED FORMER WIFE
Kept Officers from Freeing Woman by Threatening to Kill Her

Madison—(CP)—An all-night vigil by sheriff's forces in the lobby of the Mazomanie hotel, 24 miles west of here, was broken early today with a fusillade of shots, the killing of a deputy and wounding of a man for whom they were waiting.

The dead man, Earl A. Van Deusen, 28, deputy sheriff, was shot by James E. Jones, 48, who was wounded by Sheriff Harold Smedal.

Sheriff's forces went to Mazomanie at 9 o'clock last night to quell a racial disturbance between Jones and his divorced wife, Jones, a former guard at the Wisconsin state prison, and once convicted for carrying concealed weapons, had returned to the hotel operated by his wife, to force her to leave with him.

While the couple was on the second floor, the sheriff's party arrived. A son, Charles, asked that no one go upstairs for fear that his mother would be shot.

At 5:30 this morning, Jones came down and the brief gun battle, in which 15 shots were fired, took place. Roy Howard, town marshal, reported Van Deusen was killed as the deputy pointed a tear gas gun. A moment later a shot from the pistol of Sheriff Smedal felled Jones, who was arrested and brought to a Madison hospital where he is being held under guard. He is expected to recover.

Marshal Howard said Jones was intoxicated prior to the affair. Jones had been ordered by Superior Judge S. B. Schell, in Dane county to leave the state because of the trouble between the divorced couple.

About 8 o'clock Friday night he returned to the village and forced his wife and son upstairs in the hotel at the point of a gun. Howard notified of Jones' presence and of trouble at the hotel, called the sheriff's office and Sheriff Smedal, Deputies Reist and Van Deusen and Undersheriff Orbaugh responded.

They went with Howard to the hotel. There Charles pleaded with them not to attempt to arrest his father because he had threatened his mother's life if he met interference. An attempt to steel upon the father failed, crying from Mrs. Jones that her husband would kill her if the officers approached, and they retired to vantage points inside the hotel. They waited all night for Jones to make the next move.

STARTS SHOOTING
Shortly after 5 o'clock a. m. he came downstairs and, approaching the hotel living room, was ordered by Deputy Reist to "get 'em up."

Instead, he leaped back, firing as he did so. Van Deusen, hearing his gun bark, emerged from his hiding place and was struck by a shot from Jones' gun, in the left side, the bullet penetrating his body. He died almost instantly, doctors said.

The officer fell back into the hotel kitchen as Orbaugh stepped into the kitchen to fire at Jones. Reist, too, was by that time able to fire at the man, fleeing down the hotel's main floor hall. As Jones rushed into the hotel office Sheriff Smedal, standing in the middle of the room, fired twice. Jones, too, fired twice but missed the sheriff, one of whose shots is believed to have struck Jones in the neck.

The Madison police ambulance brought the wounded man and Van Deusen's body to Madison.

JONES SHOT TWICE
Examination at the hospital here revealed that Jones was wounded twice. Doctors said he might live. Both shots were thought to have been fired by the sheriff, who was using a new gun presented by fellow employees of the county as a Christmas present.

The shots were exchanged at a distance of about ten feet, the one that entered Jones' neck causing him to fall. It pierced his throat and entered his mouth. As he lay on the floor, he told the sheriff, who was Van Deusen, who lived with his widowed mother here, was an advertising representative for the Capital Times several years ago. He became a deputy when Sheriff Smedal took office. Prior to that he had been a bailiff in Dane county circuit court.

U. S. DEPENDS ON GOOD WILL TO PROTECT PACT

Berlin—(CP)—It was divulged today that the German-American reparations agreement concluded on Dec. 23 contains a clause whereby the American government declares expressly it regards good will as the sole and sufficient guarantee for fulfillment by Germany of the obligations assumed under the agreement.

In German political circles this is interpreted as indicating the desire of the American government to dissociate itself from a policy of sanctions.

Week's Weather

Outlook for week beginning Monday, Jan. 6 for the region of the Great Lakes: Frequent changes in temperature, but week as a whole will be cold; much cloudy, unsettled weather with occasional precipitation mostly in the form of snow.

Seven Basketball Players Killed As Train Hits Bus

EIGHT HURT IN COLLISION AT CROSSING

Tragedy Results in Ohio When Railroad Flier Hits Bus in Sleet Storm

Wooster, Ohio — (AP) — Helpless victims of a speeding train which cut through the night and a blinding sleet storm to crush their bus while they laughed and talked of their basketball games, seven youths were dead and eight other high school boys and girls were in hospitals today.

The dead boys, all of them between 14 and 18 years of age, were members of the high school basketball team of Burbank, near here. They were on their way home, happy over defeating the old rivals at Big Prairie, another nearby village, when a Pennsylvania railroad flier struck their bus at a crossing near Shreve, ten miles south of here, last night.

The dead are: Wilbur and Forest Grubb, brothers; Claude Repp, Wayne Lehman, Emil Tausig, Eugene Talley, and Willard Baker. The most seriously injured were Edith Repp, who suffered fractures of both legs and may die, and Lola Talley, sister of the dead boy, who received a broken leg. The others injured, most of whom suffered nothing more serious than cuts and bruises, are Charles Packard, Donnie Grace, Grace Flory, Maurice Lenz, coach of the boys' team, and Joseph Baker, 50, driver of the bus.

The crumpled bus was carried down the track 100 feet and bodies were strewn four times that distance as the bus and the sleet storm of the youngsters was changed to shrieks and the smashing of steel and splintering wood. Ambulances were called from Wooster and raced perilously over the ice-covered highway to take the injured to Wooster's two hospitals.

NO CLEAR ACCOUNT
The bus driver was overcome and unable to give any coherent explanation of what happened. He could not remember whether he stopped before climbing the incline to the crossing. The crossing at the hour of the accident—after 10 o'clock—is protected only by a bell and flash signal. Coach Lenz and those of the injured who were able to talk likewise did not know what occurred before the rushing train was upon them.

Pennsylvania railroad officials at Shreve said apparently that they had not seen the train coming through the storm and started across directly in front of it.

The tragedy hit hard at Burbank, a town of only 500 people. Every one knew the boys and girls on the basketball teams and many had journeyed to root for them at Big Prairie. The rioters started home chafed at the players, who had to have time to change clothes, eager to tell how the boys team had defeated their old enemies although the girls lost.

Word of the accident traveled rapidly, however, and soon the hospitals and undertaking establishments here were filled with Burbank residents, mothers and fathers rushing to get their children from place to place to find their sons and daughters. The rioters who had turned back were joined by many others who hastily started for Wooster when instead of accounts of the games, they received the message of death.

ANOTHER CRASH INJURIES 10
Bellevue, Ohio — (AP) — Two persons were in a critical condition today and eight others were recovering from minor injuries suffered in a collision on a back road bus en route to Detroit and a truck four miles east of here late yesterday.

Four of the 42 bus passengers were treated at Bellevue hospital, where it was reported two of them, Earl Fohl, 25, of Aspers, Pa., a student at the University of Michigan, and Miss Lois Ordway, 24, teacher at Ann Arbor, Mich., were in a serious condition. The woman was suffering from internal injuries and fractured ribs while Fohl will lose the sight of his right eye, hospital attaches said.

GUARD AGAINST RIOTS AT HUMBERT'S WEDDING
BY AUGUST BEAUMONT
Special Cable Dispatch to the Post-Crescent

Rome — (AP) — The police measures taken to prevent any violence at the wedding next week of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium are of the utmost severity. All workmen's quarters have been raided day and night in search of possible communists.

Wholesale arrests of suspects have resulted, and even the delivery man of the baker of Pope Pius has been seized and held for three hours with the pontiff's bread, which was in a sealed box the authorities thought contained bombs.

He was released only when the baker personally came and opened the box, showing the pope's bread inside. The detention of the delivery caused some wonder at the Vatican, as his absence was unexplained.

The messenger who every morning awaits the delivery man's arrival with the sealed box was much embarrassed by the danger of keeping his holiness without bread at his usual light breakfast. Finally a messenger was sent to fetch some rolls at another baker's. The delivery man has been thirty years in this service of carrying the pope's bread.

LACKS FUNDS TO TAKE BODY OF HER SLAIN SON HOME

Chicago — (AP) — Last night a gray-haired mother cried herself to sleep as she worried about getting sufficient money to return the body of her son, slain by a policeman, to Prairie du Chien, Wis. The second son is in jail here charged with robbery.

Mrs. Rose Hesse, mother of Floyd and William Hesse, was handed $19 which was found in the pocket of Floyd after he had been killed and fatally wounded by a policeman who came upon the youths after a pawnshop had been robbed. An additional $9 was given the woman by attaches of detective headquarters.

Today Mrs. Hesse will continue her efforts to raise sufficient money to return her boy's body to Prairie du Chien, to save it from the potters field of Cook Co.

NOTED CARTOONIST DIES IN NEW YORK

Clare Briggs Victim of Pneumonia After Illness of a Month

New York — (AP) — Clare Briggs, who caused many a chuckle by his newspaper cartoons depicting the human side of American life, died last night at the Medical Center of pneumonia. He was 54 years old. He had been ill for the last month with bronchial pneumonia but until a few days ago he seemed on the road of recovery. Yesterday he took a sudden turn for the worse and died before members of his family could reach his bedside.

Some of his most widely known cartoon features were, "When a Fellow Needs a Friend," "Ain't it a Grand and Glorious Feeling," "The Days of Real Sport," and "Mr. and Mrs. H." He started his newspaper career in 1906 as a cartoonist on the St. Louis Democrat at $10 a week. At the time of his death he was on the staff of the New York Herald Tribune and his work was syndicated throughout the country.

Last summer he was threatened with blindness in his right eye. He underwent an operation for sinus trouble at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, and six weeks ago entered the neurological institute of the New York Medical Center. He contracted pneumonia while there.

He was born in Reedsburg, Wis., Aug. 5, 1875. He and his wife were divorced last spring. Three children survive, Mrs. Reuben A. Lewis, Jr., Miss Ruth Briggs, and John O. Briggs. He will be buried Monday.

473 POLICEMEN FIRED FROM CHICAGO FORCE

Chicago — (AP) — Although proponents of the decreased city budget adopted yesterday said the slash in police funds need not bring a cut in the department's manpower, Commissioner William Russell dismissed 473 policemen, effective last night.

Eleven hundred employees of other departments also were discharged yesterday and it is estimated that nearly a thousand more must be lopped off the payrolls before the expenses can be made to fit the new budget cut from $90,000,000 to $85,254,140.

Discharge of the policemen was termed "unnecessary" by Alderman John Clark, chairman of the finance committee of the council. Clark said the budget allowed for the same number of policemen as last year but did not provide sufficient funds to pay 11 for a year. The needed amount, he said, would be secured from pending claims.

Russell said the discharge of 118 policemen was necessary under funds allotted his department but added that he did not dare curtail the force that far.

Although the 7 per cent slash was voted for the fire department as well as the police, no firemen have been dismissed as yet. Fire Commissioner Goodrich said it was too much of a responsibility to take such action on a few hours' notice.

Russell explained his dismissal action by declaring that "the council made it mandatory upon me, by passage of this budget, to make reductions immediately."

Meanwhile, Commissioner Russell has appealed to the association of commerce to find jobs for the dismissed policemen.

R. J. Manser left Saturday morning for Potosky, Mich., to attend a sales meeting of the Potosky Portland Cement company.

QUIET OPTIMISM IS SEEN IN LONDON AS NEW YEAR OPENS

Cheerful Tone Is Based on Cheaper Money Prospects

BY LEONARD J. REID
Special Cable Dispatch to the Post-Crescent

London — (CPA) — The city's year opens with quiet optimism based on cheaper money prospects. A phenomenal plethora of credit with day loans running around 2 to 3 per cent characterizes the discount market. The gradual repayment of amounts borrowed last week from the Bank of England and the payment yesterday of 5,000,000 pounds of Argentine bills have barely affected the disbursements of government interest and heavy purchases of short bills by clearing banks which are unable to find alternative employment for their balances.

The cause of these conditions is clearly visible in today's bank of England return, which shows government securities up 14,000,000 pounds as a result of treasury borrowings, discounts 20,000,000 pounds and borrowings still outstanding and bankers' deposits up 40,000,000 pounds.

Opinion favors the view that a further reduction in the bank rate is imminent. London bankers' clearing return for the past year shows an increase of 1.5 per cent, reflecting a large turnover of short money, but provincial clearings, which are a better index of domestic trade activity, show a significant drop of 4.4 per cent, the large reductions at Bradford and Liverpool showing textile trade depression.

There was a firmness of international stocks on the expectation of New York being strong today, especially Brazilian Traction, Hydro-Electric and International Nickel, Paris was a buyer of favorite stocks. The British railway gross traffic figures for 1929 show a 2.34 per cent decline in passenger revenue, more than offset by increased goods receipts.

DRY LAW GREATEST ISSUE IN CONGRESS

United States attorney was actually removed out of the 91 but it is believed the resignations of some of the others were forced.

The whole controversy is centering on efficiency in the offices of the United States attorneys but it is also recognized that the prohibition unit in the treasury department is the agency which requires attention as the methods by which industrial alcohol permits are granted.

Similarly, the department of justice and the treasury department, under which the prohibition unit is placed, have been at loggerheads for some time as to where the responsibility lies for failure to get vigorous enforcement. On the one hand it is contended that the prohibition agents do not get strong enough evidence for the department of justice to use in making prosecutions, while the prohibition agents report that the United States attorneys quash cases for political reasons and that law violations are increased because the terror of punishment is not widespread.

This is one of the reasons why the effort has been made to combine the process of detection with the machinery of prosecution. There is some sentiment in congress in favor of vigorous enforcement of the law with respect to those who patronize bootleggers, it being insisted that purchase is a part of a conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Some members of congress contend that the purchaser is immune. The department of justice is endeavoring to get a ruling through a test case to be decided by the supreme court of the United States and it is doubtful whether any legislation will be passed until the highest court in the land has had its say.

MOTHER OF TEN IS AWARDED DIVORCE

Wife Charges Husband With Habitual Drunkenness and Cruelty

Mrs. Lucy Schuler, 45, Kaukauna, mother of 10 children, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Saturday morning from her husband, P. C. Schuler, 45, Combined Locks. The Schulers formerly operated a hotel and soft drink parlor in Combined Locks.

Charging her husband with habitual drunkenness, Mrs. Schuler claimed he frequently used abusive language toward her. On her claims of cruel and inhuman treatment the court granted her a divorce even though Mr. Schuler contested the plea and asked his wife to return to him. Five of their 10 children are minors and are affected by the decree. Custody of the five was granted to Mrs. Schuler. She also will receive all rights to the homestead. Mr. Schuler will not be required to pay any alimony.

The Schulers were married at Sheboygan Sept. 18, 1922. They separated Sept. 17, 1929.

NAME ZANDER SENIOR STATE BUREAU EXAMINER

Madison — (AP) — Harold S. Zander, of Madison, former secretary to the Wisconsin League of Municipalities, has been named senior examiner in the state bureau of personnel, it was announced today. Zander is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin college of engineering, and was an instructor in the college for two years. His work will be that of supervising examinations for the various engineering jobs that must be filled by the personnel board's civil service examinations.

Examination to fill the new consolidated position of chief of the division of fairs and state development in the department of agriculture and markets will be held Jan. 30. A. E. Garey, director of the bureau of personnel announced. The chief of the new division will succeed to the duties of the former state fair manager, director of immigration, supervisor of fairs, and department publicity director.

SUIT MAY BAR GOLDEN WEDDING FOR COUPLE

Chicago — (AP) — Unless the Cuona Caporales effect a reconciliation soon, the observance of their golden wedding anniversary threatens to turn to the dress of separate maintenance.

Cuona Caporale, 70, has found work hard to get for an old man. His wife, Teresa, 64, found her husband's lack of work a circumstance aggravating the family tranquility. Caporale explained to Judge Sabath yesterday that he had saved $1,000 with which to bury himself and his wife when their time should come. The interest on this money, though small, he felt would provide for the simple wants of a couple married nearly 50 years. Mrs. Caporale, however, has petitioned for separate maintenance.

Judge Sabath pointed out they had lived together nearly a half a century and told them to try to make a go of it.

"If she'd come back to me, I'd try," said Caporale, "but I'm an old man, and I can't find a job."

PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LATE CHIEF JUSTICE

Madison — (AP) — Memorial services for the late Chief Justice and J. Vingo of the Wisconsin Supreme court will be held Monday in the chambers of the court at 10 a. m., it was announced by Arthur McLeod, clerk of the court.

Justice Vinje died about a year ago, and had been chief justice for several years.

Clarence J. Hartley, chairman of the memorial committee appointed for the purpose, was expected to read the memorial, with Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry responding for the court.

Eight persons united with the church last Sunday. They are Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bloom, 490 N. Division st., Oscar C. Johnson, 525 N. Division st.; Mr. and Mrs. Ewald F. Still, 523 W. Springs st. and Miss Fina Laura Whitrock, 524 W. Packard st.

Princess Marie Jose Bids Farewell To Her People

Necessity for guarding the station at her departure and the necessary elaborate precautions against mishap enroute were known to have saddened her.

As the trains started cheer and shouts of "long live the princess," "long live Prince Humbert," and "long live the king" could be heard. And as the train disappeared in the night the princess could be seen still waving her gloved hand.

Officials and other dignitaries arrived at the railway station half an hour before the princess and the remainder of the royal family. Princess Marie Jose upon her arrival was presented a bouquet of orange blossoms by Baroness Lemonnier. Both she and her mother wore fur coats, while her father and two brothers were in full dress uniform. Thirty young girls, pupils of the Erasmus School of Music, chanted a song as the party entered the station.

The journey to Basel, across the shortest edge of northeastern France, was arranged so that progress through French territory would be made in the dead of night. The route enabled the trains to evade the French Riviera, where many enemies of the Fascist regime and the house of Savoy live in exile. The exact routing was not made public.

Several plots against the lives of the royal party recently have been uncovered. A few weeks ago an attempt was made against the life of Prince Humbert during his visit to Brussels to announce his betrothal. His assassin was an Italian expatriate living in France.

APPLETON SCHOOLS TO REOPEN NEXT MONDAY

Appleton schools will open Monday morning after a two week Christmas vacation. Lawrence college will resume classes Tuesday.

The first semester in the senior and junior high schools will end Friday, Jan. 24, and the second will begin on Jan. 27. Students planning to enter the senior high school for the second semester are asked to register at the administrative office before the close of the first semester.

The Talking Pictures of POST-CRESCENT GROWTH

Ten years old this month is the Appleton Post-Crescent after a vigorous growth almost unprecedented in cities of comparative size. Yet when 1920 circulation reports showed 7,685, we felt that 10,000 would represent the peak

The passing of another year found Appleton's young and thriving newspaper more in demand than in its infancy. Net paid circulation figures for 1921 now reached 8,139. Perhaps the top was not yet in sight

By the end of 1922 the daily averages reached the impressive total of 9,595. Here was a sheer gain of 1,356 readers in a single year. True Post-Crescent strength was showing, reader consciousness becoming more apparent

The year of 1923 indicated that not enough copies of the Post-Crescent were reaching the Appleton territory. By its own merit the newspaper now went into 10,065 homes, bringing vital, complete news to them

In 1924, as circulation averages showed the surprising total of 10,946 copies daily (an increase of 3,746 since the consolidation) the limit seemed to be coming closer. Our five years had been progressive ones

But by the end of 1925 we removed the word "limit" from our vocabulary. The closing of this year showed a certified A. B. C. report of (as in every figure given here) an average of 12,843 copies daily

The Post-Crescent was busily earning its title of "Wisconsin's Fastest Growing Daily Newspaper." Figures for 1926 totalled 13,203. (Multiply that by four to get the actual number of interested readers)

The better an institution becomes, the more it is desired by those who use it. Post-Crescent desirability sent its daily circulation averages up to 13,671 by the end of 1927, an increase of 6,471 since 1919

The Standard Rate and Data Service had long since acclaimed Post-Crescent circulation THE LARGEST IN THE COUNTRY FOR A CITY OF COMPARATIVE SIZE. The 1928 average was 14,568

The year just past completed this first decade of amazing growth, the 1929 daily average of 15,325 giving the Post-Crescent an increase of more than 100% since the consolidation. More next week

Federal Agents Raid Big Brewery Near New London

PAIR ARRESTED AS OPERATORS OF BEER PLANT

Edward Rossey and Louis Sasse to Be Arraigned in Court at Racine

Two men were arrested and a large brewery was destroyed by a squad of federal prohibition agents, working out of Milwaukee, in a raid on the Gus Rossey farm in the town of Liberty, about two miles north of New London on County Trunk N. Friday afternoon.

Edward Rossey and Louis Sasse, charged with being operators of the brewing plant were arrested and taken to Racine where they are to be arraigned before United States Court Commissioner Harry L. Kellogg. Vats containing about 5,000 gallons of beer were found in the raid on the Rossey farm. The vats were destroyed and the beer was poured on the ground. Other equipment found included a four pint bottling machine; an electric refrigerating plant; 24 cases of beer; eight barrels of beer; six carbonizing tanks; one large electric generating plant; and a 1,000 gallon pasteurizing plant.

The pasteurizing plant, according to the federal agents, was the first to be found at a wildcat brewery in this district. This plant is only a few miles from the farm where federal agents, with Sheriff Fred W. Giese, raided a wildcat brewery more than a year ago. No arrests were made at that time, as the owners of the plant were never found.

RAID AT RACINE
Racine—(AP)—Reserve firemen and the entire Racine fire department were called out early last night to fight a blaze started when a crew of workmen using an acetylene torch set fire to a building where federal prohibition agents were holding a still wrecked after a raid.

Shortly before 6 o'clock p. m., Milwaukee agents raided a barn at the rear of Frank Traves' home and uncovered a 1,000 gallon still and more than 60,000 gallons of mash. They arrested Traves and called workmen to wreck the huge still. Flames from the workers' torches set the barn on fire. The alcohol from the still fed the flames.

MILPRINT PRODUCTS WINS LICENSE CASE

Milwaukee—Fox river valley mills show a considerable interest in the decision at Chicago by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in favor of the Milprint Products corporation of this city in its controversy over a food display package license with the Shelmar Products company of Chicago.

The Milwaukee firm announced today the awarding of contracts running into more than $100,000 for paper, after holding up orders pending the decision of the Federal court. The disputed package consists of a strip of transparent cellophane bordered by two strips of non-transparent paper, and is used for wrapping meats, candy bars and other food products.

While located in Chicago, the Shelmar Products company is owned by Wisconsin capital, most of which is Appleton-controlled. The officers are: A. F. Zuehlke, Appleton, president; Bert W. Martin, Milwaukee, vice president; and Walter Miller, Appleton, secretary and treasurer. The disputed license was purchased some time ago by the Milwaukee Printing company, a subsidiary of the Milprint Products corporation, from the Allen-Qualley company, St. Paul. The suit was based on an alleged breach of contract on the part of the Shelmar company and has been in federal courts for more than two years.

35 YOUNGSTERS TAKE PART IN Y PROGRAM

Thirty-five youngsters, ranging in age from four to 15, were entertained Friday afternoon at a "Brothers' Day" program in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by C. C. ## SEEK SOURCE OF FIRE AT CAPITAL

In the office of Representative John Garner of Texas. The house Democratic leader, and later taken to a hospital.

QUESTION MOBILIZER

Today he practically had recovered and from him capitol officials hope to obtain some light on the cause of the fire. Several capitol employees suggested the possibility that a cigarette or a cigar started the blaze.

David S. Lynn, the capitol architect, and Joseph G. Rodgers, the house sergeant-at-arms, reiterated this morning that they proposed to investigate carefully into the cause. Both were at the capitol last night before the flames were extinguished and obtained all information there available.

The fire was discovered at 7 o'clock p. m. Capitol police turned in the alarm. The sounded a five call notice that brought every engine in the business and near-in residential districts.

Firemen on apparatus which had to travel over Pennsylvania-ave were surprised forward by the sight of the sight of the flames, leaping and glowing brightly above the hundreds of electric lights that illuminate the building.

Thousands of Washingtonians swarmed to Capitol Hill. Many in the city had missed the White House fire and last night as word spread over the city that the capitol was burning, women and children hastened to the scene.

LIVES ENDANGERED

So quickly did the crowd assemble, that hundreds were on hand before the last of the first companies arrived and there were narrow escapes in several instances as the fire trucks roared into position. On the west side still another crowd gathered on the sloping hill. Those who raced to this position had the best view of the flames piercing toward the sky.

Of the thousands obtaining information about the fire over the telephone was President Hoover. He was only a week ago that he stood on the west balcony of the White House dressed in evening clothes and watched the fire in the executive offices. Last night he instructed White House aides to obtain all information and they immediately had a White House phone connected with the office of Representative Garner.

After the firemen had smashed the east rotunda door, they carried hoses lines through the rotunda—the walls of which are decorated with many valuable oil paintings of events of early American history among them the landing of Columbus and the Surrender of Cornwallis—to reach the narrow, winding stairway to the fourth floor.

GAIN QUICK CONTROL

Firemen had the blaze under control in slightly more than 10 minutes after they put their first hose in action, but considerable time was lost in reaching the fire because of the winding stairway—just across the building from that used by tourists who climb to the top of the dome. The entrance of the stairway added to the delay as the first group of firemen could not locate the door. The fire was out within 45 minutes from the first alarm.

On the west, Moberly's room adjoined a runway under the eaves of the wing. Much water had settled in a vat in the floor of this runway and fire Chief Watson turned his men to hauling water from this vat to the moment the blaze was out.

Firemen were unable to explain what use is made of the vat or concrete receptacle but said they had been ordered to dry up as much water as possible to prevent its seepage into the office below.

Immediately under the artist's room is the office of Representative John McDuffie of Alabama, the assistant house Democratic leader, while under McDuffie's office is the private office of Speaker Longworth. Representative Garner's office is opposite that of the speaker's while several civil service justices of the supreme court as well as the chairman of the house banking and Indian affairs committees have rooms in that section of the building.

Last night's fire was in the central building on which construction was started in 1918, four years after the British had burned the original capitol building, the corner stone of which was laid by George Washington.

COUNTY PETITION FOR AID ON STATE HIGHWAY 55 DENIED

Says Improvement Should Wait Until Funds Are Available in Calumet-co

Outagamie-co's petition for improving Highway 55 from Kaukauna to the Calumet-co line, a distance of 2.5 miles, has been denied by the state highway commission, according to word received Saturday by John Hantschek, county clerk, from K. G. Kutenacker, secretary of the commission.

Mr. Kutenacker said the commission's investigation, following receipt of the county's petition adopted at its November meeting, revealed that 1.75 miles of Highway 55 extends from Kaukauna's city limits to the Calumet-co line. The balance of the distance, .75 miles is inside Kaukauna.

The letter from the commission pointed out that funds for construction of the state highway system could not be used on connecting streets in cities and therefore the portion of the highway in Kaukauna could not be paved with state funds anyway.

In denying the commission said there are no funds available for improving Highway 55 in Calumet-co and it would be better to wait until there are sufficient funds available to complete the entire distance. Then it would not be necessary to close Highway 55 to traffic two seasons but the work could all be done in one season, the commission said.

In denying the petition, the commission said it would hold the matter in abeyance until funds are available.

U. S. BIG FACTOR AT HAGUE MEETING

Fear America May Not Take Part in International Bank Directorate

BY WILLIAM BIRD
Special Cable Dispatch to Post-Crescent

The Hague—(AP)—Though represented only by an unofficial observer, Edwin C. Wilson, the United States is really the biggest factor in the uncertainty of the conference which opened here Friday.

France and England had settled their differences before the arrival of their delegates here. Premier Tardieu determined weeks ago that no such unpleasant surprises as Chancellor Philip Snowden of England furnished at the party last summer should bob up again this time to divide the principal allied powers and make it easy for Germany to wrench new concessions from the conferees.

Accordingly, the French bank experts went to London early in December and in a series of conversations with British treasury officials agreed upon a new official agreement covering all major points of this second Hague parley.

The meeting of Premier Tardieu and Chancellor Snowden this morning touched only minor questions. What is worrying the French, British and all other creditors today is not whether Germany will finally put her irrevocable signature to the Young plan and deliver promissory notes to the new international bank, but whether the American market can and will absorb any large portion thereof and deniable Germany's creditors to get money quickly.

Since the Young plan was finally drawn up, the Wall Street crash profoundly altered presumptions on which the plan was based. Discounting doubts are entertained as to whether the American market can discount appreciable quantities of German paper, except at ruinous rates, which would enormously diminish sums on which the creditors had been counting.

Another fear—only whispered as yet—is that the American government may not permit American participation in the international bank directorate, unless certain modifications are made in the bank's statutes. It would not be surprising if Oswald Wilson could be called into conference on this question during the present parley and be asked for assurances on this point.

Tiny Railroad To Home Of Washington Doomed

Alexandria, Va.—(AP)—After 37 years of service in carrying pilgrims to the national shrine of George Washington at Mount Vernon, the little electric railway between this city and the peaceful estate beside the Potomac is to be abandoned.

Abandonment has been made necessary, not because fewer pilgrims visit Mount Vernon, but in order that more may go there.

Part of the line's roadbed is to be used by the government for the $4,500,000 George Washington Memorial-bld between the nation's capital and the home of the first president. The road is to be opened for the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington in 1932.

Millions of people have traveled on the cars of the little electric line and gleaned from accompanying guides intimate details of the life of George Washington as they passed over the ground he trod in earlier years.

On this line, too, many pilgrims, especially those from northern and western states, have made their first acquaintance with the "Jim Crow" laws of southern states, as the Virginia statute requiring segregation of Negro passengers always has been rigidly observed.

Negotiations for sale of the road, half night of way to the government have been going on several times. After permission for abandonment is obtained from the Virginia Public Service commission, the rails will be scrapped. The line was purchased at auction some years ago for $750,000 and in recent times has been operated at a loss.

Mount Vernon still is served, except in mid-winter, by a river steamboat from Washington, and automobile buses transport many persons to the shrine. When the new boulevard is completed that method of transportation will become the principal means of reaching the historic spot.

Mr. Younger has made a study of the biology of animal and plant life for a long time and recently wrote a book which is earning its way to popularity in many junior high schools.

PRINCE OF WALES OFF FOR AFRICA

Big Game and Extended Sporting Holiday Reasons for Trip

BY JOSEPH GRIGG
London—(CPA)—Big game and an extended sporting holiday are the chief objects of a long African jaunt on which the Prince of Wales started Friday with the felicitations of the whole nation.

But his trip will, nevertheless, have other implications, for it is understood to be his intention to visit certain districts, particularly Drabon, where there have been acute native troubles.

It is expected that he will make considerable use of airplanes in his quest for trophies, though the camera will probably be used more than rifles, for the prince desires to retain a still and motion picture record of his jungle life. He already has a long film of his recent flights in England.

The prince, who is said to have had at least one narrow escape in his quest for lions and elephants, from which he was called away by the king's illness, is now bent on bringing back trophies for his living room at York House, adjoining St. James's palace.

The prince leaves for Africa in great haste. This is due to golf (which has taken the place of steeplechasing and riding to his decision to attend as few banquets as possible).

IN GOOD CONDITION

He resembles his grandfather, the late King Edward, only facially and somewhat in spirit. There is no hint of corpulence. He has no need to make the rather common "slimmers" with his thirty-sixth birthday six months ahead. He tips the scales today at 139 pounds.

About three years ago one of his medical advisers enjoined him to eat simply and sparingly at the luncheon hour, to cut down his banqueting and to reduce his smoking, cigars in particular. He has adhered closely to this program and some of his illustrious ancestors would regard him as a very temperate drinker indeed. Queen Elizabeth liked a good pint of strong beer, and generally had it with her breakfast.

There are dries who don't like his visiting workmen's clubs or pubs and openly quaffing a tankard of ale. The majority of his countrymen, however, approve, saying:

"If the prince wants a beer, let him have it, and good luck to him!"

Much has been said and written about the prince's marital intentions, but he appears today to be as disinclined to marry as he was ten years ago.

In his latest trip into the jungle he will have with him several hundred shots who accompanied him a year ago. King George has long ranked as one of the finest shots in England. The prince has done most of his "shooting" on golf courses. He has come into the senior category in recent months or is now a twelve handicap.

HI-Y ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL DINNER MEET

At Nits and C. Herfeldt, radio entertainers from station WTMM, Milwaukee, gave a program of music at the annual Hi-Y alumni banquet at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening. Forty-one were present. Arrangements for the affair were made by present members of the club, assisted by C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the association, and Orlando Skindrud, faculty advisor of Appleton high school.

Talks were given by Mr. Skindrud, Mr. Bailey, W. C. Smith, chairman of the association boys' work committee; H. H. Heible, principal of Appleton high school and Hi-Y alumni; Arthur Roemer, president of the Hi-Y club acted as toastmaster.

COUNT KAROLYI'S ARRIVAL QUIET; ONE TALK PLANNED

Latest Developments Take Off Edge of Victory for Liberals

BY LEMUEL F. PASTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—(AP)—Unforeseen events have dulled the edge of victory for American liberals who for four years have been hoping and battling for the unconditional admission to this country of Count Michael Karolyi, first premier of the Hungarian Republic. Count Karolyi arrives in New York Saturday, bearing no state department strings or tags of any kind, but the proposed public reception in his honor has been abandoned.

The Anti-Horthy League and the New York Communists sent to Count Karolyi in Paris a denunciation of the Horthy School of Social Science as a crowd of "social fascists." The Rand school had in hand the plans for the reception and the count, afraid of being involved in dissension, sent word that he would confine his appearance to a single lecture in New York, on Jan. 7, under the auspices of a lecture bureau. Professor Charles A. Beard, Sinclair Lewis and Walter Lippman were to have headed the reception committee.

VISIT IS FREE
William E. Bohn, director of the Rand school, today made public a letter from the state department, replying to his inquiry as to whether the department would impose any restrictions on what the count might discuss. The reply, which was signed by J. Theodore Morrison, chief of the division of eastern European affairs, said that no conditions had been made with regard to the visit of Count Karolyi.

"But," Mr. Bohn added, "this means nothing to us now, as the communists have wrecked our reception. So far as we know, there will be no reception of any kind for Count Karolyi."

The long "rawn-out" controversy over the visits and proposed visits of Count Karolyi has been one of the most curious episodes of the history of the American state department. He has been a persistent and tireless advocate of universal suffrage and the secret ballot. This seems to be the farthest range of his subversive doctrines and Charles Evans Hughes, when he was secretary of state never made public his reasons for refusing a visa to the tall, stopping, 1228 the count was allowed to land for sixty hours at New York, en route from Mexico to Spain. The efficient New York police department, taking its cue from Washington, clicked into action. The apostle of universal suffrage was met at the old ship pier by 50 members of the bomb squad, who flanked him on the way to his hotel and gave him no chance whatever to blow up the custom house.

INHERITED FORTUNE
Late last century, Count Karolyi inherited from his uncle, Alexander a fortune of about $80,000,000 and the magnificent old family palace at Budapest. Belonging to one of the oldest and richest of the Hungarian families, he was entitled to a seat in the house of lords. He did not take it, but ran for parliament as a liberal and was defeated. In 1909, he became member of the Hungarian Society of Hungary and in succeeding years fought the financial oligarchy which he charged dominated the nation. With the collapse of Austria-Hungary, on Oct. 18, 1918, he was summoned by King Charles and made premier. The rising revolution swept away the king about two weeks later.

Then came an episode in the count's life which, according to form, should have brought him a congressional medal rather than exclusion from American shores. He was driven from power by the communists, with the rise of Bela Kun. When Admiral Horthy later seized control and established a dictatorship Karolyi was exiled and for years has led a rather lonely existence around Raspail and Montparnasse, in Paris. His friends have charged that his exclusion from this country was due to the machinations of the Horthy party.

A year ago, the Hungarian government liquidated the remains of the count's estate and confiscated 60 per cent of the returns of $7,000,000. The remaining 40 per cent went to relatives of the count who had refused to join him in such heresies as the advocacy of universal suffrage.

The count's public career was hampered from the beginning by a linguistic defect. It is an aging, mild-mannered, scholarly man, with a slight limp, who once brought the New York bomb squad into action and who, with a more lenient administration at Washington, is now admitted. But the communists, his former enemies, now appearing as his friends, have again marred his triumph.

CHURCH TO INSTALL PASTOR IN ONE WEEK

Installation of the Rev. D. E. Bosman as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church at Kaukauna will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Jan. 12 at the church. Sermons will be given by the Rev. E. F. Krauss, D. D. of the Chicago Lutheran Seminary, and Rev. R. H. Gerberding, president of the synod.

CONDUCT HIKE FOR Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS

A hike to "Green Patch" on the upper Fox river for 23 youngsters was conducted Friday morning by C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Skating, skiing and other outdoor sports furnished entertainment. Lunch was served at noon after which the youngsters returned to the association building.

COUNTY RURAL SCHOOLS OPEN AFTER HOLIDAYS

Most Outagamie-co rural schools will reopen next Monday following the annual Christmas and New Year holidays, according to A. G. Meating, superintendent of rural schools. A few schools, which needed to make up days to maintain the regular school calendar, reopened Thursday or Friday of this week, but the largest number of schools will open on Monday.

TROTSKY PREDICTS PROBABLE RETURN OF RUSSIAN CZAR

Decided Decline in Present Regime, Banished Dictator Holds

BY FREDERICK OESCHNER
Special Cable Dispatch to the Post-Crescent

Berlin—(CPA)—In an interview with Emil Ludwig, noted biographer of Bismarck, Napoleon and Kaiser Wilhelm, Leon Trotsky, the banished Russian dictator, goes as far as to envision the probable return of a czar in Russia.

While the present regime in Russia might appear to be progressing along certain lines, there is on the whole a decided decline. Some day there may be a general reversal of existing systems. Perhaps we shall even see the return of a czar, but no reaction will ever again place the governing power into the hands of a few hundred nobles. The accomplishments of the revolution can never be wiped out.

These are the views Trotsky expressed to Ludwig during an interview which took place on Trotsky's lonely island home in the sea of Marmara near Constantinople, and just published here by the Berliner Tageblatt.

While it is obvious that Trotsky has a small opinion of the men presently ruling Russia, his admission of possible drastic changes in the Soviet rule, were considered interesting here. Should was on European intervention have the effect of gathering again the Trotsky forces, now dispersed all over Russia, Trotsky himself is confident of being able to get back into that country to lead them, he said.

SEE ECONOMIC "CONQUEST"
The recent stock crash in America is only the beginning of a tremendous industrial upheaval, the result of which will be to inundate Europe with American goods, Trotsky feels. Such an economic "conquest" will come in two years or less, he added. Of course, he sees trouble, and wishes to see it everywhere in the world. Ludwig wrote, though Trotsky himself does not proclaim a world revolution, and, in fact, never uses the word "revolution," but he evidently hopes for it soon.

The deposed dictator characterized Ramsay MacDonald's trip to America and his efforts to come to an understanding with President Hoover "not as means to serve peace but only for the purpose of maintaining national selfishness." Trotsky derides conferees during two world powers quarrel over a mere 30,000 tons of naval armament while "swimming in tears of good will."

"And what about your Red army?" he was asked.

"Well, we have offered honest disarmament," he replied. "As long as that offer is not accepted, we must seek to protect ourselves like other powers. A new Deniken may turn up."

This indicates that Trotsky does not minimize the possibility of a White army offensive of serious proportions against the Soviets. Trotsky is pictured by Ludwig as being in good health and much more tolerant and ripe in his views than one would expect "Bloody Trotsky" to be. He is 50 now, with graying hair, but is comparatively youthful in appearance. His island home is of the barest sort, a sort of Turkish frame dwelling with a few shabby chairs located in a desolate environment. His wife and son share his exile. Ludwig was the first visitor to the dreary island since last summer.

COLD KILLS TWO MORE AT MEXICAN CAPITAL

Mexico City.—(AP)—Mexico, which usually has delightful winters, is experiencing one of the most bitter seasons of its history. Lack of adequate heating facilities is making the cold seem extremely severe.

Two more victims were added during the night to the 13 lives already claimed by the cold. The two—half starved—were found frozen in the streets. The thermometer registered 25 above zero, Fahrenheit.

Fog yesterday forced suspension of the Mexico City-Brownsville and Mexico City-Mazatlan airplane services. Violent north winds sweeping the Gulf of Mexico kept shipping at Tampico and Vera Cruz at a standstill.

NEARLY 30 MILLION FOR OREGON PROGRAM

Salem, Ore.—(AP)—Oregon will spend $28,500,000 on public improvements during 1930. Gov. A. W. Norblad stated today in a message prepared in connection with President Hoover's recent appeal for a general speeding up of federal, state, county and municipal projects.

CHEVROLET OFFERS BRAND NEW MACHINE

Announcement Comes on Heels of Greatest Year in Its History

The Chevrolet Motor Company today announces a new car for 1930 known as "The Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History."

Announcement of the new car today comes right at the close of Chevrolet's greatest year, for the sensational success of the six-cylinder Chevrolet, introduced just a year ago, resulted in an output of 1,350,000 cars this year, breaking by a wide margin all former Chevrolet annual production records.

In making public Chevrolet's plans for 1930, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, declared that with the improvements incorporated in the new car, Chevrolet was anticipating a volume of business that will equal, if not surpass, the phenomenal record of 1929. And, in order to accommodate an early production is being speeded with all the haste consistent with the precision methods for which Chevrolet manufacturing operations are famous.

New car shipments have been going out to dealers for the past ten days, with deliveries to owners scheduled to start today. The car went on display this morning in thousands of Chevrolet showrooms from coast to coast, while at the same time the announcement of the new car was being broadcast through the advertising columns of more than 6,500 newspapers.

Scores of distinct improvements have been made in the 1930 Chevrolet line, the factory announces. Greater beauty, added safety factors, improved riding comfort and better all-around performance with added power and acceleration are announced as features of the new line.

Larger tires, small wheels, Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers at all four wheels, Fisher slanting non-flare VV windshield and vastly improved four wheel braking system are some of the highlights.

Brakes are of the internal expanding "articulated shoe type" both front and rear, those on the front wheels having two shoes while those on the rear have four. Friction brakes, also, are fully enclosed giving perfect protection against water and dirt.

The brakes represent an innovation not only in the Chevrolet line but in the entire passenger car field. The length of service that these linings give in the new design Chevrolet is second to none. The brakes may be adjusted without the removal of any plates from the brake drum and operate with equal efficiency on all four wheels. The brake drums are 11-1/2" in diameter. The emergency brake is an independent unit operating on the rear drums. A new method of construction known as the "articulated shoe type" assures uniform braking under all conditions of temperature. Tests at the General Motors Proving Ground show that the new brake will stop a car traveling thirty miles per hour in two and two-tenths seconds within 48 feet.

The attractive new closed bodies, in a variety of colors, carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. Eight models, three of which are new to Chevrolet, comprise the line. Of the eight, five are open cars and three are closed. The closed cars are the sedan, coach, coupe, sport coupe and club sedan. The open models are the roadster, sport roadster and phaeton. The models new to the line this year are the sport coupe, sport roadster and club sedan.

The Chevrolet is sold and serviced in Appleton by the Satterstrom Chevrolet Co., 511 West College-ave.

AUTO EXHIBIT TO SHOW MOTOR TRUCKS

Expositions, Sponsored by Reo, Will Be "Speed Wagon Show"

Those who view the National Automobile shows in New York and Chicago this year will not only witness the latest achievements in passenger cars but will be given an opportunity to see one of the most comprehensive expositions of motor trucks ever assembled.

The truck expositions, to be known as "The Speed Wagon Transportation Show" in each of the two cities, will be sponsored by Reo. The New York exhibit will be held at 625 W. 55th street while the Chicago show will be at the corner of Michigan ave and 13th street, opposite the new Southern Hotel. Free bus transportation between the National shows and the truck displays has been arranged.

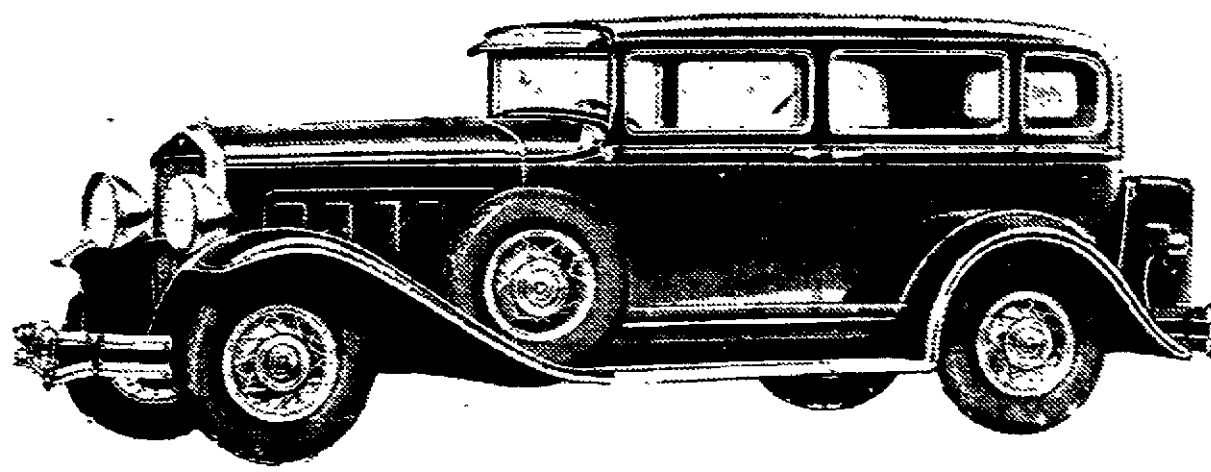

The truck shows will be more than exhibits of commercial trucks. They will be educational expositions, designed to acquaint both the public and the industry with the progress that has been made in truck transportation and presenting it for the first time in a manner commensurate with its importance to the nation's economic structure.

The general public opinion of the trucking industry, usually largely slow moving, cumbersome road hog, that transporting merchandise, impeding traffic, tear down highways and dodge their fair share of taxation, according to Richard H. Scott, president of Reo.

"Those close to the industry know this opinion is grossly exaggerated and entirely in error, yet nothing more than a feeble attempt has been made so far to counteract it in an adequate manner."

"The Speed Wagon Transportation Show" will give the public an opportunity to visualize the industry as it actually exists today. It

Comfort—Luxury Combined in Hudson's Great 8 Touring Sedan

Providing the ultimate in riding comfort without excessive size and weight, the Hudson Great Eight Touring Sedan is outstanding among Hudson's offerings for 1930. The Touring Sedan, which is mounted on the 126-inch chassis, is luxuriously appointed. Seats are of unusual width and depth and occupants of both front and rear seats enjoy more than normal leg room. The designers have carried out the modernistic design to the smallest detail.

HUDSON GREAT EIGHT MAKES APPEARANCE

Model Is New Type in Motor Dom, Manufacturers Claim

Hudson is now an eight—the Great Eight.

And its makers, with a confidence born of 22 years' successful experience, are emphatic in their claim that the Hudson Great Eight is an entirely new type in motordom. Prices will be in the well known Hudson range.

Power with economy and without the penalty of over-weighted mechanism is provided by the new Great Eight motor, designed to give the maximum in smooth, quiet performance.

Years of experimentation have preceded the introduction of what Hudson engineers believe to be the maximum performance standards possible in an eight cylinder car, and eight cylinder Hudsons have been tested under every possible condition—using the highways as their testing ground—for the past two years.

The car is ultra-modern, not only in its Great Eight performance standards but in its roominess, body lines and down to the last detail of upholstery, fittings and appointments. The modernistic motif, thoughtfully restrained, is apparent from the first glance at the new models. Two chassis are available, the standard wheel base being 119 inches, and the larger size, 126 inches. While the two chassis differ in length, to accommodate standard or deluxe bodies, and in all minor details, they are identical as far as design and fundamental structural features are concerned.

There are ten body types, the Coach, Sedan, Coupe, Phaeton, Roadster, and Sun Sedan are on the 119 inch chassis; the larger, 126 inch chassis, carries the touring Sedan, Passenger Sedan, Drougham, and Passenger Phaeton body types.

will display the up-to-date modern, speedy and safe mode of transportation used to move the merchandise of modern business and industry. In short, it will show the public what progress has been made within one of the greatest industries in the country today, and it will tend to show them how this progress has affected the economic situation of the nation.

More than thirty companies will participate in each of the Transportation Shows. In addition to a display of many different wheel base Speed Wagons, there will be a gallery of highly vocationalized mounted ladies and equipment in the large space set aside for the exhibits. There will be buses, road machinery, semi-trailers and six wheel attachments, refrigerator bodies used for the preservation of food, special exhibits to demonstrate the savings in time and labor in the handling of materials and decrease in distribution costs and a wide variety of special equipment, such as bodies equipped with spraying devices for orchard and agricultural work; gasoline tanks and milk tanks; morticians' vehicles and telephone company equipment, emphasizing the part motor trucks are playing in the development of radio, talking pictures, television and other modern accomplishments.

The transportation exhibits, according to Reo officials is the first step in a campaign that has been inaugurated to better acquaint both the automobile industry and the public in general with the progress it has made in recent years.

The adoption of the Speed Wagon mode of motor transportation fifteen years ago has developed into the greatest revolutionary improvement in the American trucking industry has witnessed. It has literally taken off the highways the bulky, slow-moving, traffic-impeding type of transportation that wrecked the highways and postponed traffic facilitation for so many years. It has altered considerably the situation pertaining to motor vehicle taxation, and yet, because the public has not been made acquainted with all the evidence of progress, the same antiquated taxation and other ideas prevail now as were in existence when the old type of juggernaut ruled and rolled over American highways.

The Speed Wagon Transportation Show is an initial effort to familiarize both the dealers' organizations and the public with the progress made in American truck transportation, so that there will exist in the public's consciousness a true picture of the situation as it actually exists.

NEW FORD BODIES APPEAR THIS WEEK

Added Beauty Lines Constitutes Outstanding Features

Detroit—(AP)—New Ford bodies made their appearance for the first time this week in dealers' showrooms throughout the United States.

Added beauty of lines constitutes the outstanding features of these new bodies. Mechanically, the Ford retains the same chassis and engine that have established the performance records of the Model A with such changes as have been built in since its introduction.

The new lines of the Ford are most readily apparent in a deeper and narrower hood, higher and longer hood and streamlining moldings that sweep gracefully rearward without a break.

The instant impression of a car that sits and rides lower results from a lowered top, smaller wheels, larger tires and new fenders, while increased riding space has been provided through greater interior dimensions. Fenders of new design add a great deal to the flowing sweep of the car, while the running board and side shield or valance fit snugly to the body. Also, the fenders flare up from the chassis frame in a pleasing line to a higher elevation than formerly. Rear fenders also sweep down gracefully over the wheels to a point two inches lower than previously.

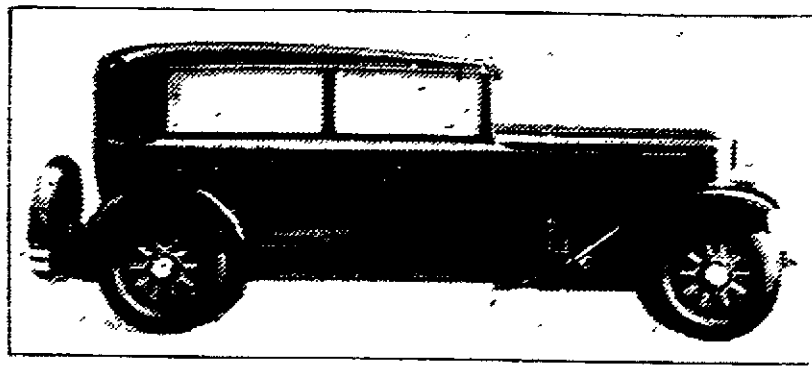

One of the distinctive changes is found in the new standard 19-inch wheel, a reduction in dimensions of the earlier wheels. This change, when coupled with larger tires, brings the car closer to the ground, thereby attaining a still snuggler adherence to the road-bed and permitting of increased riding comfort and safety.

While an effect of new length and loveliness results from the lowering of roofline, there is no curtailment of head-room inside. The interior reflects improvements as much as the exterior. Throughout the line, greater leg-room and riding space have been achieved. Adjustable seats have been added to all closed types to permit increased ease of riding, entrance and exit.

Another of the innovations of the new Ford bodies is the use of rust-less steel for exposed metal parts. This is found in the radiator shell, headlamps, hub caps, cowl fresh air strip and tail-lamp. It is said that the new steel does not corrode, tarnish or rust in any kind of weather and that it cannot wear off, crack or scale because it is the same metal throughout.

Bodies will be available in a variety of new colors. Among these the cars to be seen for the first time Tuesday are Kewanee green, blue and yellow, and a new color, Andalusite blue, maroon and black.

Oakland Comes Out With New Eight Cylinder Car

Oakland Eight Two-Door Sedan

Recent rumors of new developments in the Oakland-Pontiac line for 1930 found ample basis here today with the first display of the latest products of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

While retaining its established position in the six cylinder field with the New Series Pontiac line, which presents many mechanical refinements the company now has entered the eight cylinder field with a moderate-priced high-powered type, Oakland that offers new peaks of power, speed and acceleration. The new Oakland is the only motor car in its price field powered with a "V" engine.

A weight of 35 hundred pounds out of 251 cubic inches displacement making one horsepower to every 37

ACCELERATION IS FOUND IN VIKINGS

Speed to Get Away Is One of Outstanding Points of Car

Speed and safety are considered as antonyms, insofar as automobiles are concerned. In fact vehicular transportation, from the horse and carriage days to the present time, has been held about with laws limiting speed.

There are, however, in this day and age of heavy traffic, times when a certain type of speed not only is required but is a real safety factor. And that speed is rapid acceleration, or the ability to get a car under way quickly.

When a moving obstruction appears in the path of a motorist there are three ways of avoiding a collision. One is to steer out of the way. The second is to come to a quick stop. And the third is to speed up and get out of the way.

Which of these three safety methods is to be selected must be chosen by the driver practically instantaneously, for emergencies on the road do not permit lengthy thought before acting. And the selection made by the driver will depend upon two distinctly different conditions. One has to do with that particular emergency and whether it would be best to veer, brake or speed out of the way. The other condition has to do with the driver's knowledge of the performance ability of his car and whether it can be turned quickly enough to escape, or if the brakes will stop it in time, or if it has the needed acceleration to get it out of danger.

Naturally, if the automobile is deficient in any of these three performance factors the driver's choice of action must be limited, regardless of what would be the best way to avoid an accident.

Regarding brakes, there is no room for difference of opinion. Every automobile should be equipped with adequate brakes and these should be kept in efficient condition.

The question of rapid turning is not so clearly defined. Some cars have a much longer turning radius than others. Also, some steer easier than do others. And the length of the automobile also is a factor which must be considered when a sudden swerve to escape an obstacle is contemplated.

Rapid acceleration is beginning to be recognized as a necessary performance characteristic of present-day automobiles. An automobile which will respond instantly and surely to the movement of the throttle is the more mobile, easier handled and safer in every situation. It has the advantages of a quick moving, sure footed human possessor.

The Oldsmobile "6" and the Vauxhall "8" are sold and serviced in Appleton by the Berry Motor Car Co., located at 742 West College-ave.

U. S. MADE CARS STILL LEAD WORLD

American Engineering Genius Credited With European Improvements

Kenosha — American engineering genius may again be credited with creating the pattern for motor car improvement this year in certain respects.

Enter motor performance through the refinement of various mechanical units and increased passenger comfort through lowering of body suspension and increasing interior roominess are outstanding features of the latest and best foreign cars.

These same factors are basic points of a interesting report on the trend of overseas automobile manufacturing made today to C. H. Bass, sales manager of The Nash Corporation, by Nash engineers located at the London Motor Show. They indicate that there can be no possibility of any foreign invasion of the automobile field in the United States and that American industry generally still retains its comfortable lead in values offered the public both at home and abroad.

Items for them, the new features revealed by European manufacturers in their show exhibits compare with the advancements which have marked the Nash line for a year or more." Mr. Bass declared after reviewing the engineers' report "Changes in the models exhibited at the Paris Salon are not considered revolutionary in any respect, but it is plainly apparent that foreign manufacturers are making a special effort to match the refined power, motor responsiveness and silence which characterize the American product and to supply the type of increased owner comfort and convenience offered by our own Salon bodies.

It is interesting to note a few of the overseas improvements which American engineers have traced to American engineering successes. For example, the foreign majority of new French show cars equipped with internal expanding brakes, more powerful valve-in-head motors equipped with rubber mountings and vibration dampers and with refined heat control and carburetion. Very similar to the advanced units developed in our famous 1929 Series. A few foreign makers have adopted the pump, fuel feed and centralized valve systems patterned along the lines of units which are included in a list of Nash 1930 features, and a few of the finest European cars have adopted a side braking control like that which adds so much to the safety and driving pleasure of Nash owners.

About half of the European manufacturers now produce cars powered by straight-eight motors; but although the straight-eight is no longer the most popular type of car, as yet, the European Eight is considered a luxury car on account of its high initial price and the higher fuel and tax costs which accompany it. Foreign engineering, it seems, has not been able to develop the maximum power and fuel economy in every sized range of motor which has achieved through gradual engineering adaptation of changes in the high compression, valve-in-head motor.

SUMMER DRIVING HARDER ON TIRES

No Appreciable Wear Shown from Service During Colder Months

A fallacy in tire wear is that with the decrease in temperature the tire becomes stiffer and that it will wear more during the winter than in the summer. If you could compare a tire worn for a year round the clock with one worn only during the summer months, you would find that the summer tire wears more than the winter tire.

Cooper Tire & Rubber Co. engineers and technicians have found that the average tire wears about 1/32 of an inch in a year, or about 1/16 of an inch in the summer months. This is about the same as the wear shown by a tire worn for a year round the clock.

The engineers say that there are a number of factors which enter into the wear of a tire. The most important of these are the weight of the car, the speed at which it is driven, the condition of the road, the condition of the tire, and the condition of the driver. The weight of the car is a factor because a heavier car will wear a tire more than a lighter car. The speed at which it is driven is a factor because a car driven at a higher speed will wear a tire more than a car driven at a lower speed. The condition of the road is a factor because a car driven on a rough road will wear a tire more than a car driven on a smooth road. The condition of the tire is a factor because a tire in poor condition will wear more than a tire in good condition. The condition of the driver is a factor because a driver who drives recklessly will wear a tire more than a driver who drives carefully.

Bear "Traded In" On New Dodge

"Teddy", a 350-pound Canadian black bear turned over to the Mikabben Motor Company, Dodge Dealers in Cedar Rapids, Ia., as part payment on a new Dodge sedan by Milfred Engelbert of Williamsburg, Ia., poses with William F. Vele, custodian of the Cedar Rapids Zoo. Bruin was presented to the zoo by the Dodge Dealer. Because he is a good-natured animal, trained to do a number of amusing tricks, and also because he is probably the first bear ever to be traded in for a new automobile, "Teddy" is expected to be a headline attraction at the zoo.

BUICK FREIGHT BUSINESS LARGE

Represents Greater Tonnage Than That of City of 30,000

The railroad freight business provided by the plant of the Buick Motor Company in Flint, Michigan, is greater than the tonnage hauled for an entire average city of thirty or forty thousand population. It has been conservatively estimated that Buick hauls more freight business than any one hundred miles of line on the Pere Marquette railroad. Situated on the main line of the Pere Marquette, this vast motor plant is served with a huge web of spur lines and spurs that have a total length in excess of seven miles. These lines are kept busy constantly hauling in carloads of materials, shifting them into the proper sidings for unloading and loading into the cars newly loaded with automobiles and parts to make up the long trains destined to every city on the North American continent.

Under normal everyday conditions there are five of these trains, made up from fifty to one hundred cars each, leaving the Buick plant yards every twenty-four hours. They include in a list of Nash 1930 features, and a few of the finest European cars have adopted a side braking control like that which adds so much to the safety and driving pleasure of Nash owners.

PET BEAR TRADED IN FOR NEW DODGE CAR

Animal Is Offered as Part Payment for Automobile in Iowa

Milfred Engelbert of Williamsburg, Iowa, wanted to go home and have a pet bear—a 350-pound black fellow from Canada. "Teddy" was a new bear and a great pet as well as a new car. So Milfred took the bear to Cedar Rapids, Ia., and announced to the startled sales force of the Dodge Motor Company, Dodge dealers, that he wanted a new car and proposed to trade the bear in as part payment.

The sales staff had some difficulty at first figuring how a deal could be made between the bear and the car. But both Milfred and the sales staff were determined to make a deal. While Milfred was not averse to a proposition of "No bear, no automobile," Bruin was being traded along by demonstrating to the automobile men of the Dodge Motor Company that he was a good-natured animal, trained to do a number of amusing tricks, and also because he is probably the first bear ever to be traded in for a new automobile, "Teddy" is expected to be a headline attraction at the zoo.

ALDERMANIC DEFIANCE
Another year of aldermanic government was assured the common council Wednesday night when it refused to call a special election on adoption of the city manager government in time to permit the plan to become operative this year.
The responsibility for this situation which in effect denies the people the right to express themselves on public questions when they want to rests upon the four aldermen who refused to vote for a special election in February, giving flimsy excuses designed to hide their real reasons. Their attitude cannot be interpreted in any other way than as a challenge to the community, a defiance to the will expressed by 4,500 people and a determination to show that they and not the people are the masters. The fact that 4,500 persons had asked for a special election and that six of their fellow aldermen were willing to give it to them had no weight against the possibility that an election in February might throw these aldermen out of their jobs in April.
It is to be regretted that the wishes of the people can be flouted in so defiant a manner, but that is a penalty the people must pay for electing men who have so little regard for their responsibilities.
In justice to the men who voted for the election in February it should be said that several of them, at least, were opposed to a special election as a matter of personal opinion but their sense of duty to the 4,500 persons who signed the petitions far outweighed their personal inclinations. They took the attitude that the people are the masters and the aldermen are elected to carry out their wishes, regardless of their personal fortunes or desires. Their attitude was in sharp contrast to the arrogance of the wilful four whose vote was a defiance to the people.
Another proof of this defiant attitude of some members of the council was the vote of Aldermen Priebe, Brautigan, Gmeiner and McGillan against rescinding the council's resolution to call a city manager referendum on its own initiative. Despite the fact that these men knew that the only purpose of this so-called election was to confuse the voters and embarrass them, they insisted that the farce be continued. It was another indication of their bitter determination that the people be denied the right of expression in municipal affairs.
But the city manager advocates have no cause to be downhearted. While city manager government for Appleton has been deferred for a year, its adoption is all the more certain. Every action of the aldermanic opponents just shows more clearly the machinations against the people, and the resentment of these people will be expressed in terms that will be clearly understood in the city hall, even by Messrs. Brautigan, Priebe, Gmeiner and Earle.

SAME OLD WAR DOPE
Gen. Allenby, conqueror of Jerusalem in the World War, expresses himself politely in favor of disarmament, with reservations. "Every nation," he says, "has whatever armaments it thinks suited to its own needs. It is a question of national defense. I should not blame any nation for having armaments deemed necessary for its defense. Each nation has the right to use the means best suited to its requirements."
Most of us can agree with this—with reservations. If every nation is to be left the sole judge of its own defense requirements, how are things ever going to be any different from what they were when the World War started? All the nations then thought they knew what was needed. They had all armed for peaceful self-defense. This freedom of action is precisely what causes naval competition and vast armaments. As each builds more ships the "defense" requirements of the others increase.
No, it won't do among nations any more than it will do among states, counties, cities and individuals. The whole is greater than any of its parts. The human race must have some rights. If rampant nationalism ran everything, each nation short-sightedly for itself, the race would perish. Armament is purely relative. There are no absolute standards.

There has to be either coercion for peace, or peaceful persuasion. Let nations take their choice.

EUROPEAN CONFERENCE
The fourth of the recent conferences on reparations settlement has opened at The Hague. It is expected to be the final session for putting on the finishing touches and determining a few incidental questions not yet disposed of. About the only issue that remains between France and Germany is that of sanctions, in the event of non-payment of annuities, which cover a period of 59 years and amount to approximately $10,000,000,000. Germany objects to a renewal of occupation of her territory or any other infringement of her sovereignty in case of default, but is willing to have a commission set up to ascertain responsibility and to provide the necessary guarantees.
French opinion is divided but there is no reason to believe that an agreement will not be reached on this subject. In fact, while there will be the usual controversy and debate, the meeting will undoubtedly end in a complete understanding of all phases of reparations. It is expected to include even the credits and debits of the Balkan states. After the details have been subscribed to by the representatives gathered at Geneva, it will be necessary for each government to ratify the contract. Obviously the entire understanding revolves about German acceptance, and of this the government has pledged its good faith. There is, therefore, no contingency that diplomacy or human prevision can anticipate that will prevent a settlement of reparations.
Two other important international conferences are to be held in January. One is the meeting of the council of the League of Nations on Jan. 13, when a number of matters touching League jurisdiction and functions are to come up for discussion. The League is coming to take a more and more important place in European affairs, notwithstanding the criticism and sarcasm aimed at it. Europe cannot get away from the fact that its hope of open diplomacy, right relationships and peace rests to a very high degree on the potency and activities of the League. It has become the one clearing house in the world for the frank submission of every sort of problem and difference to which nations are subject. In this respect alone it is invaluable. Vital as the clause providing for collective resistance to aggression may be regarded by nations like France, it is probable that more true harmony and good feeling will be achieved by the frequent consultations, which the meetings of the council and assembly furnish than by concrete application of Article 10.
The third and most momentous of the January international conferences is that at London on disarmament which opens Jan. 21. Here will be decided policies likely to shape the tendency of the world toward peace or war for a long time to come. The meeting has been called after a free acknowledgment of the fact that armament today is excessive and dangerously provocative. If the conferees adhere to this principle the results cannot fail to be satisfactory and to bring about a material reduction of naval armament.
Like all conferences of this character, it is preceded by the usual antagonistic and pessimistic talk. Most of it is gossip to which no attention need be paid. Also, we may discard the oft-repeated assertion that it is to be a gigantic game in which each participant will seek to outdo and get the best of the other. We do not believe that spirit animates either the governments or their representatives who are to go to London. If it does it is not only a colossal mistake, but those responsible for it will become known and will be subjected to the scorn of their own people and the contempt of the world. Despite all that has been said to the contrary, everything augurs well for the London conference and for the triumph of genuine statesmanship.

Today's Anniversary
WASHINGTON'S MESSAGE
On Jan. 4, 1790, George Washington issued his first annual presidential message.
Before Congress, in his first message, Washington laid an eminently judicious series of suggestions of laws and provisions, which were at once the basis of legislation.
Washington refrained from allying himself with either of the two parties, Federalist and Democratic Republican, then forming under Hamilton and Jefferson. On the contrary, he strove to reconcile the differences between the two leaders which he saw in the future must inevitably bring about wider differences among the people.
Today also is the anniversary of Utah's admission to the Union, on Jan. 4, 1896.
And on Jan. 4, 1899, President McKinley sent the treaty of peace with Spain to the Senate.

LOOKING BACKWARD
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Saturday, Jan. 2, 1905
The members of the George D. Eggleston post and the Women's Relief Corps held a joint installation at their headquarters the preceding evening.
Two basketball games were to be played at the Alexander gymnasium that night, the Lawrence pygmies and the high school team playing the first one, and the second being between the university five and a team representing the Lawrence School of Commerce.
Frank Schuldes and Joseph Roemer who had cheese on exhibition at the recent cheesemakers' convention at Milwaukee, were awarded standings of 93 and 97 respectively out of a possible 100.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keller and children had returned home from a week's visit at Milwaukee.
The Misses Eva and Nellie Leach returned that morning from Wautoma where they had been spending a few days with their brother.
The Rev. A. Le Grand returned home from Oshkosh the day before where he had been visiting with relatives.

TEN YEARS AGO
Saturday, Jan. 2, 1926
More than 4,500 alleged radicals had been taken into custody in the nation-wide drive. It was learned that day at the department of justice.
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pfeil and daughter Elizabeth spent New Year's at Oshkosh.
The engagement was announced of Miss Anna Hawes, daughter of Mayor J. A. Hawes, Appleton, and Edward Lukens, Chicago.
Mrs. A. W. Bloom, 531 Morrison-st., was to entertain the Tuesday club at her home the following Tuesday.
Miss Jessie Wardworth and Miss Clara Langstaff were to entertain a number of friends at an informal dancing party that evening at castle hall.
Mrs. R. M. Bagg was to entertain the members of the Clio club at her home the next Monday.
Dr. James Rolfe and Dr. Robert Larson left the day before for Milwaukee to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Chiropractors.
Miss Geraldine Finlon, Lawrence-st., who was spending the winter in Washington, D. C., attended the congressional reception on New Year's day as the guest of Senator and Mrs. L. L. Lenroot.
France now has the largest army in the world—about 6,700,000 men. Russia, with about half a million, comes second.

THE CONSERVATION OF THE TEETH
Our friends the dentists are gradually and reluctantly relinquishing their nineteenth century doctrine that decay or caries of the teeth is due to lodgment of food particles, particularly sweets; and subsequent fermentation thru bacterial activity, with the formation of acids which proceed to eat away or dissolve the enamel and so expose the inner structure of the tooth to—er—well, here you just go round the circle again, without asking too many questions, if you please. This old theory served to spoil many a treat for the kids of '89. It contributed tremendously toward the prosperity of the toothbrush and toothpaste industry in America. Also it was a pretty darn comfortable alibi for the dentists, yea, and the doctors too, when, in spite of indefatigable and faithfully correct use of the brush and whatever kind of disguised soap happened to be approved in the community, a youngster's teeth developed cavities just as readily as tho the poor child had never seen a toothbrush.
I say the dentists are quietly dropping the old reliable hypothesis—but don't cheer, children, for we're not out of the woods yet, not by any manner of means. And don't ever get into an argument with a dentist over the toothbrushing rite, not with your own dentist anyhow. He is apt to cut you off just as you have him about cornered, by asserting that nevertheless and notwithstanding he advises you to keep on brushing your teeth, and by the particular technic he recommends, and there you are—you've got to follow his orders or chance dentists. It is just like consulting a physician. If you employ a doctor, and then fail to obey his orders or follow his advice, you're a fool to waste your time and money like that.
A year or more ago I told her something about the studies of Julian D. Boyd, M. D. and C. L. Drain, D. D. S. on the spontaneous or natural arrest of dental caries. It is so important that I want to refer to it again.
In the first place these scientific investigators say: "Strict oral hygiene is not necessarily a preventive of caries, (caries is the dentist's term for what folks know as decay or cavity formation) and many adult mouths which do not receive care and have exposed dentin (breaks in the enamel) show little caries." Drs. Boyd and Drain observed among the children in a clinic many whose teeth presented definite evidences of arrest of caries. In some cases large cavities having thus healed, and some of these naturally cured cavities were found in the most poorly kept mouths. All of which is grand news for (1) the kids, (2) the candy trade, and (3) those crude and unregenerate ones among us who do not waste time or money on toothbrushes or dentifrices unless definitely ordered to go thru the motions by our own dentist.
Further investigation of the matter by the Iowa scientist elicited the fact that every child presenting arrested caries was, under treatment for diabetes. Diabetes itself would rather tend to favor decay or caries of the teeth. So some other explanation was sought, and the explanation the investigators offered was that the diet of these children happened to provide not only the necessary mineral matter (in dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables and greens or leafy relatives) but also the vitamins that are essential for normal utilization of calcium (the "D").
And now, kids, I hurtle me as much as I can, but I've got to mention that cod liver oil is rich in vitamins A and D.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Grand Slam in Dentistry
Is it better to have 14 teeth pulled at once and then the best scrap? With local anesthetic and then have two plates in six weeks, as my dentist advises, or to wait six months or more after having two or three teeth taken out at a time? (Mrs. O. M.)
Answer—It is said to know that you have neglected your teeth so long. From every point of view it pays to have the dentist examine one's teeth every six months or at least every year and treat anything that requires treatment or at least clean the teeth. If your teeth or gums are infected, it might be better to have them extracted one or two at a time. Otherwise it is generally better to have all the teeth extracted at once, and the necessary dentures made and inserted in the mouth as soon as the gums are healed. The regular care of one's dentist is the only care of the teeth that matters, I believe. As for the use of medicaments, or the use of instruments or implements by the patient, time to do that when one's dentist definitely prescribes it.

The Usual Cause of Nasal Obstruction
Please tell me how to make my daughter, aged 7, breathe thru nose. Her tonsils and adenoids have been removed but she still breathes thru mouth. I have tried trying it shut, but it seems she can open it anyhow enough to breathe at the corner. (Mrs. G. A. P.)
Answer—The usual cause of obstruction in the nose is chronic rhinitis (inflammation of the lining of the nose passages) and swelling or thickening of the turbinate bodies in the nose; in many cases this is associated with chronic tonsils and adenoids are much less frequently responsible for mouth breathing in a child. Of course trying the mouth shut is no remedy. Have the child properly examined by a physician and the nose condition that examination discloses properly treated.

A schooner containing $130,000 worth of whisky was seized off Boston when coast guards found it running without lights. We would have thought that anybody carting that much whisky around would be well enough lit to satisfy anybody.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Back in 1918, a general, bespectacled young man just past his twenty-sixth birthday was going quietly about his duties as an obscure army field clerk at the American headquarters in London. The world war was ended. The eyes of the world were being focused on Paris and the forthcoming peace negotiations.
One day the young field clerk was ordered to report to his superior officer. He was told that he was to go to Paris. Henry White, one of the American peace commissioners, had selected him to be his private secretary.
William H. Beck went to Paris. And he remained there until the peace commission had completed its work and returned to the United States. Beck, now in the army, thought Beck is now my lot.
But during the peace negotiations, Robert Lansing, then secretary of state and a member of the peace delegation, had been attracted to Beck. He thought him too good a man to lose—felt that the state department needed a man of Beck's type.
TO STATE DEPARTMENT
So Lansing set about to secure his services. He had Beck discharged from the army, and then offered him the post as special assistant to the secretary of state.
Beck accepted, served as special assistant to Lansing for six months, and then became his private secretary. When Lansing went out, Bainbridge Colby held on to Beck. Charles Evans Hughes came in as secretary of state and selected Beck as his secretary. Frank B. Kellogg did the same, although by February of 1926 Secretary Kellogg had come to regard Beck as so indispensable that he made him assistant to the secretary.
And Secretary Stimson has made him his executive assistant—the fifth secretary of state under whom Beck has served.
Fey are as adept and skillful as Bill Beck in relieving the burdens of his superior. He has a tiny office at the state department, surrounded by assistants and innumerable telephones. All visitors to the secretary's office must first see him and state their business. Before they are aware of what is going on, Beck has most of them in the hands of an expert without having seen the secretary.
MEMORY FOR NAMES
Beck's memory for names is phenomenal. Although he has been introduced to you but once, the chances are the next time you see him he will call you by your first name, if permissible. And the smile he throws in with the greeting assures one that he is of real importance, to Beck at least.
His memory for first names has caused him trouble but once. During the Paris peace conference he met with a hardboiled army sergeant whom he had not seen for many years.
"Hello, Percy," he greeted the sergeant as he passed him; "I haven't seen you for years."
The sergeant looked at him for a moment and growled:
"Listen to me: There's only one guy in Europe who knows my name is Percy. Lay off. Over here I'm Pete. Any more of that Percy stuff and I'll give you a punch in the nose."
CATHOLICS OF BELGIUM LINE PAN-EUROPE IDEA
Brussels—(AP)—The proposed federation of European states has received the support of the Catholic party in Belgium.
Addressing the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Congress of the Federated Catholics' Associations and Clubs of Belgium, Viscount Terlinde referring to the contemplated union said:
"It is the duty of the Catholic party to support the government in this international policy which, while opening new roads to prosperity, brings us nearer to peace and better understanding with other European countries."
He further appealed to the country to give up any hostility to Germany in order not to expose Belgium to the danger of political isolation while Germany becomes affiliated with France.
The man whose five children were given drums and horns for Christmas must have a lot of fun reading what the nationalist government of China has to put up with.

SCIENTIFIC GIFTS ARE PRESENTED TO PAPER INSTITUTE

Materials Valued at $3,000
Are Received from Dr.
Clarence West

Scientific library materials valued at $3,000 comprise the latest gift to the Institute of Paper Chemistry, which will open for its first term of graduate study at Lawrence college in February. Coming from Dr. Clarence J. West, the chairman of the committee on Abstracts and Bibliography affiliated with the National Research Council, the gift gives strong indication of the keen interest with which the opening of the Institute is being watched by the scientific world.

The library materials include valuable collections of American and foreign periodicals on paper chemistry which have been gathered over the past seven or eight years by the Committee on Abstracts and Bibliography. The valuable treatises which the volumes contain will make a noteworthy addition to the body of research material being established for the use of the Institute students under the direction of Dr. Otto Kress, technical director of the Institute.

The National Research Council, which sponsors the gift through its committee was established in 1916 by the National Academy of Sciences under its Congressional Charter and organized with the cooperation of the National Scientific and Technical Societies of the United States. The Committee of Abstracts and Bibliography, headed by Dr. West, has for its task the collection of library materials for research purposes in many allied fields of science. The voluntary selection of the library of the Institute of Paper Chemistry by the committee as a suitable depository for the paper research materials of the council lends auspicious recognition to the Institute.

London—(AP)—Despite the fact that there was no change in the New York reserve rate, the Bank of England cannot long delay a further step in the world's progress towards cheap money, though it is doubtful whether Governor Norman will move from conviction or because he is prematurely pushed from behind by circumstances which do not welcome a cautious estimate on the immediate position.

The predominant feature today was the extreme weakness of discounts. Treasury bills were allotted around 4 1/16 per cent. Most London tenders had expected a rate of about 4 3/8, as compared with the average of about 4 3/4 per cent last month. Ninety day bank drafts are barely obtainable at 4 1/4 per cent, holdings being reluctant to sell on a falling market with money still plentiful and continental banks, desirous of a new year replenishment of their portfolios, are even bidding 4 3/16 per cent.

Thus the bank rate is completely ineffective and since the irregular tone of sterling against the dollar here is ascribed to a temporary technical position of exchange dealers' books in certain continental centers, while the franc now looks safe above the gold point, it is argued that a 4 1/2 per cent bank rate could be risked without delay.

There being some leveling up on the last day dealings for present account but no increase in the volume of business. India stocks, however, continued to be depressed by the decisions of the labor congress. Strong holders of these stocks, however, are not perturbed.

There is much questioning of the position of the Gaumont company, in view of the troubles of the Fox Film company. It is known that the former had a working agreement for the exhibition of Fox pictures. The connection was denied but it is believed that Fox held large blocks of Gaumont shares.

GERMANY HEARS HIGH PRAISE FOR SCHURMAN

Berlin—(AP)—All Germany listened to a farewell oration on Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, retiring American ambassador, broadcast by Prof. Arthur Liebert, president of the Kant society today.

Prof. Liebert voiced the deep regret of the German people in losing a friend to whom the country owes deep gratitude for his warm heart and understanding mind.

"At the pinnacle of popular veneration, he is the recipient of best wishes from the nation to which his affection ever inclined," said the professor.

Saved From Knife— Appendicitis and Arthritis

"In 1921 I was affected with arthritis in the right knee; this resulted in a removal of the knee and in 1927 required an operation. The pain continued, with no relief. Three weeks ago severe pains occurred in the right knee. I consulted a physician and was told an operation for appendicitis was necessary.

I heard of the Theronoid and commenced treatment. Today the pain is gone from my knee and also from the knee of my left leg. Credit to Theronoid and believe it is all you claim it.

SALVATION ARMY SEEKS HELP FOR DESTITUTE WOMAN

Help for a woman in destitute circumstances is being sought by Captain Henry Servais of the Salvation Army post. The woman arrived in Appleton last Monday night from Dodge-co, where she had previously worked on a farm. She expected to find work in the city but was unable to do so and when her small supply of money ran out she didn't know what to do. Directed to the Salvation Army by a Y. M. C. A. worker the woman was given a bed in the army headquarters where she is staying for the present. Captain Servais said this is only a temporary solution, however, and that he hoped some one in Appleton would be able to find a place for the woman. She has no relatives and no home to go to.

APPLETON NAMED ON ROAD SCHOOL GROUP

Frank Appleton, Outagamie-co highway commissioner, has been made a member of the committee on cooperation between counties and towns in construction of county roads and town highways for the annual road school at Madison, Jan. 27 to 30. Mr. Appleton said he would attend the road school but that the highway committee members had not yet decided whether they would go. The committee members throughout the state are divided into four general committees which meet Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, to discuss matters referred to each. The committee will report at a general meeting the next day.

OFFER $100 REWARD FOR APPREHENSION OF PAIR

A reward of $100 has been offered for information which will lead to the apprehension of Walter Buchholz and Miss Ruth Hoffman, both of Ripon, who disappeared from that city about a week ago in a stolen automobile, according to word received by local police. Charges of larceny have been filed against the pair according to the notice received here in connection with the theft of a Chevrolet sedan, 1929 model in which they are believed to be traveling. Both the girl and man have worked as grocery clerks and may attempt to secure that kind of employment. The man is married and has a wife and a minor child living in Ripon. He is about 30 years old, five feet 10 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds and has dark hair and gray eyes. The girl is about 20 years old, five feet, six inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, and has dark hair.

100 Present At Dinner Of W.R.C.

MORE than 100 people were present at the annual installation dinner of the Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, Friday night at Elk hall. Members, their husbands, comrades, Spanish War Veterans, and their wives were among the guests. The meal was prepared and served by the executive committee.

A business meeting was held at 2:30 after which new officers for 1930 were installed. Mrs. Emma Brown acted as installing officer and Mrs. Frankie Sherry was installing conductor. Those who took their places for the first time were Mrs. Amanda Pfeil, president; Mrs. Lydia Bauer, senior vice president; Mrs. Alice Ralpa, junior vice president; Mrs. Ella Cavert, secretary; Mrs. Anna Schuler, treasurer; Mrs. Virginia Abbey, chaplain; Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, guard; Mrs. Ernest Sonntag, assistant guard; Mrs. Emma Hatcher, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Stella Sharp, color bearer No. 1; Mrs. Clara Miller, color bearer No. 2; Adora Hauert, color bearer No. 3; and Mrs. Blanche Brinkman, color bearer No. 4.

Mrs. Mary O'Connor, conductor-elect, will be installed at the next meeting, the second Friday in January. Mrs. Margaret Zschaeche, assistant conductor, and Mrs. Emma Brown, press correspondent, will be installed at that time. At the business meeting there were 49 members, seven comrades, and three visitors present.

MRS. MARSHALL IS LEADER AT ALPHA MEETING

Mrs. L. J. Marshall was the leader at the meeting of the Alpha Delphi chapter Friday afternoon at the Appleton Woman's club, and Mrs. L. M. Howser acted as Delphiian traveler. The general theme of the program was "A Civilization Based on Agriculture and Trade." Mrs. Marshall presented "The Land of the Cradle of the Race" and Mrs. D. M. Gallaher discussed "Sumer and Acad." Other topics were "Hamurabi," by Mrs. E. K. Nielsen; "Aspects of Babylonian Culture," by Mrs. Roy Davis; "Family Life," by Mrs. G. Lippert; "Hamurabi Code," by Mrs. Fred Heinritz; "Babylonian Religion," by Mrs. S. C. Shannon; and "Babylonian Architecture," by Mrs. E. K. Nielsen.

At the business session, which preceded the program, it was definitely decided that all members taken in from now on will be associate members, but that no extra fee will be charged these members. Twenty-four members were present.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Leslie Hanson has been elected president of the Junior high school department of the Congregational church school. Other officers include Olive Miller, vice president; Roy Peabody, secretary-treasurer; Gertrude Gebke, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The film, "Blue Danube," featuring Rudolph Schiklraut, will be presented at the moving picture service at the Congregational church at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Dr. H. E. Peabody will deliver the sermon and special music will be provided.

Dr. Wilson S. Naylor, dean of Lawrence college, will speak at the meeting of the Sunday Morning Men's club at the Congregational church at 9:45 Sunday morning. His subject will be "An Introduction to the Old Testament."

The curriculum for the pastor's classes at Congregational church has been revised and new methods of teaching instituted. The classes, held every year from the first week in January until Easter Sunday, will begin Monday, with Dr. H. E. Peabody in charge. Boys will meet at 4:15 and girls at 5 o'clock.

A New Year's party entertained the Junior Young People's society of St. Paul Lutheran church Friday night at the school hall. Twenty-five members were present. Games were played and prizes won by Orme Stach and Mildred McInberg. Refreshments were served.

Auxiliary To Install New Leaders

PLANS for the installation of officers in conjunction with the camp Jan. 10 were made at the meeting of the auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans Friday night at the assembly. This will be an open installation and the Green Bay camp and auxiliary has been invited to attend. Comrade Albert J. Obensperger, department commander, Milwaukee, will be installing officer for the camp and Mrs. Rose Morris, department president, Green Bay, will install for the auxiliary. Refreshments will be served under the direction of the executive committee which will work with a committee of the camp.

Arrangements were made for a social meeting to take place Jan. 23 for both the camp and the auxiliary. A committee in charge includes Mrs. Mildred Zerbel, Mrs. Rose Belin, Mrs. Jennie Wheeler, and Mrs. Lena Clausen, the latter of Menasha. Cards will be played.

Balloting on candidates took place at the meeting. Twenty members were present. Six members attended the installation dinner of the Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, Friday noon at Elk hall.

PARTIES

On New Year's eve, about 35 friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Aura Main, Clintonville, to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. Skat and cino provided the entertainment. Prizes at skat were won by Leonard Hartwig and Walter Nemetz, and at cino by Martin Brunner and Mrs. William Zuehlke. The rooms were decorated with balm and colored lights and the tables were trimmed with bouquets. A watch service was held at midnight and an address was given by Niles Stein, Antigio. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Main. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reiskow and children, Wittenberg; Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Mr. and Mrs. Schuh celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Nov. 6, 1916. Mrs. Schuh is still active in spite of her four score years, and is enjoying good health.

The Tynmites By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites reeled out in gloom. Wee Scouty laughed and shouted, "Geel! It's well we tumbled in the snow. At least it's soft as down. Not one of us is hurt a bit. You all look queer from where I sit. For once our good friend Clowny looks just like a funny clown."

"I am a clown," came the reply from Clowny. Then he heaved a sigh. "But I don't like this chilly snow. A lot went down my neck. When we were flopping through the air, it gave me quite a sudden scare. It always sort of frightens me when we are in a wreck."

"Why should you kick?" another snapped. "It is your fault that we were trapped. You steered our bike and sent us on the very silly spill. We might have known that you'd do that. I landed on my tummy flat. 'Twas you who did the pedaling. It seems you're shy of skill."

"That's right, blame me. You ought to know," said Clowny. "That it was the snow that threw us off the bicycle. 'Twas slippery, just like ice. When things go wrong it seems a shame that I should always get the blame. As far as your concerned it is my fault. That's not so nice."

"Oh, stop the scragging," Carpy cried. "Let's jump and go on with our ride. The bike is right there in the snow!" And then there came a roar. The Tynmites heard a sudden growl and Carpy let out quite a howl. "Hide quickly, everyone," cried he. "Here comes a big black bear."

They were as quick as they could be. Each one jumped right behind a tree. The bear picked up the Tynmites' bike and held it by his side. He eyed it closely for a time and then the Tynmites watched him climb into one seat. To their surprise the bear knew how to ride.

(The Tynmites have real cause for a big laugh in the next story.)

Miss Margaret Joslyn, a senior at the University of Wisconsin, will return to Madison Monday after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Joslyn, E. College-ave.

Miss Beatrice Segal, who has been spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Segal, will return to Chicago Sunday, where she attends business college.

The Rev. Ambrose Weber returned to Fostoria, O., Thursday, after attending the funeral of his brother, Louis Weber, in this city.

Flapper Fanny Says:

The Story of Sue
by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"SHE'S not drunk. She's just hysterical," Sue answered the landlady's furious tones.

"Well, she can pack her hysterics and skip. I've had enough of her high and mighty ways. 'Aren't you the girl who's the sister of that young Merryman? He can thank his lucky stars he isn't marrying this female,' the rasping voice went on.

"Santa Claus is so good to me," Geraldine murmured as she started back up the stairs. "That woman didn't like me because I wouldn't gossip with her, and went with too many men."

"But where will you go?" Sue asked anxiously.

"To the devil eventually, I suppose. Tonight to the cheapest hotel I can find. Then I'm going home. I can have a grade in the village school. I was sweet and nice before I came away, and the board has offered me a position. You see, I resigned here when I thought I was going to be married and I'm not keen about staying in town anyway. First, I wish I could locate that ring."

"If I hadn't made that suggestion you wouldn't have played into my hands," Sue told her straightforwardly. "It's my fault for not being in the open. I'll fix things up somehow."

"Your conscience never was put away in moth balls, was it?" Geraldine asked, throwing a green dress and a blue one and a yellow one in a heap into her traveling case. "You meant to help. I made you come here, for anyone with two glass eyes could see you wouldn't put my name on your calling list because you liked my company."

Sue demurred but Geraldine interrupted.

"You're anxious to get away, aren't you?" she asked. "It's all right. Go ahead."

"No, I'm sticking until you're ready. And I'm going to think up a scheme. Will you call me in the morning?"

The next morning, as soon as she had started her work, she would call Harry Becker, she decided. Harry was influential and maybe he could advise them. She thought of Jack but some inhibition would not let her turn to him.

Before she got around to calling Harry, he called her, announced that his arm was well and asked her to go to lunch with him. At the luncheon table she told the whole story.

"We'll go to that pawn shop right away," Harry said when she had finished. "But first, we're going to get a policeman and the man at the store who can identify the ring. And Miss Parker will have to go, too."

NEXT: A visit to the pawn shop.

News About New Books

BRIGHT INTERVALS, by Nancy Hoyt. Review by Eleanor Evans Wing. A clever novelist does not need to be long-winded in order to tell you his story. He does not need the prescribed number of words, nor the proper climaxes, episodes and disasters. He can throw nearly every convention to the winds, if he really knows how to tell a story so that every reader is engrossed in his plot and not in his technique. This is true of Bright Intervals by Nancy Hoyt, published by Alfred A. Knopf. One can gauge the tenor of the tale by its prefatory quotation: "A depression over Northern Ireland is moving slowly to the South; weather will be rainy with — Bright Intervals."

If we tell you exactly what Miss Hoyt's story is—a light novel—we shall not be doing the book justice. It is so sophisticated, so sparkling and so different from the ordinary run of things, that placing it in the 'light' class may detract from its power and charm. You should know something of the plot—Lydia Stephany Graeme at twenty was curious by uneducated in some ways, yet she could grade emeralds, choose decent wines, speak five languages and mimic her elders and betters with deadly accuracy. She meets Bill Norton, marries him in London, plays with him in Paris and lives with him in New York and meets catastrophe. Being a made Stephany, a stalwart Graeme and a charming woman, she makes faces at troubles and emerges at the top with a baby, a business and a reattached husband.

Perhaps you remember Scarlet Heels, one of last year's most sophisticated novels. If you do, you will approach Bright Intervals with an excellent background. Although these two stories were not written by the same author, they show the same knowledge of continental life and they treat it unsentimentally—not as the regulation American novelist paints it. For the latter surrounds European conventions and lack of convention with a glamour of churchly disapproval and without understanding in the least, creates an entirely erroneous picture.

Of course, it really is difficult for most Americans to understand a civilization where laws are made to be kept; where conventions are established by virtue of their age and tradition; where inessential and hypocritical moral laws have long since gone into the rubbish heap of an older and wiser civilization than ours; and where there is such a spirit of nonresistance that custom and tradition alone dictate what is and is not done.

All these things—these thoughts and these mere ghosts of thoughts, Nancy Hoyt weaves skillfully into her story Bright Intervals. She does not shriek aloud at the noisy law-breaking American public, but she certainly does protest against it. And her protest forms very interesting reading. We recommend Bright Intervals to your immediate attention. You will be glad to have it at your finger tips the next time you are drawn into a discussion of life in various parts of the world.

ADMIRAL SIMS PRAISES BIOGRAPHY

Characterizing it as "a salty yarn of daring and successful adventure," Admiral William S. Sims, naval hero of the World War, directed a salvo of praise at "Commodore David Porter: 1780-1843," by Archibald Douglas Turnbull, recently published by Century. "I had of course read the history of the gallant Commodore's famous exploits," writes Admiral Sims, "but not until I had read this book did I know the man, David Porter, as I feel that I know him now; nor did I fully understand the basis of his success as a leader. I knew what he had accomplished, but not all the personal qualities that made him so successful—not only his dauntless courage, resourcefulness, bold initiative and understanding of the seamen of his day, but his constant practice of taking his men into his confidence, according every one his full share of credit and inspiring, encouraging and training them in the full exercise of their own personal initiative."

"It is a salty tale of daring and successful adventure that will interest both young and old and particularly, will fix in the minds of youth the glorious sea incidents of our early history and the qualities of one of the leaders who did much to put out infant navy on the sea."

Among the scientific devices which George Allan England, author of "Isles of Romance" and at present treasure hunter in the Gulf of Mexico, has taken along on his expedition, "is an electric device for locating treasure buried underground. The machine is the invention of Mr. Chris Peterson, a Norwegian electrical engineer who is a member of the party. Experiments with the device have already been successful in locating metal buried at a depth of five feet below the surface and Mr. Peterson is making improvements which are expected to make the machine function to a depth of 55 to 75 feet. Mr. England has charts of the location of four distinct treasure hoards, two of them being caches of gold and two being sunken wrecks of pirate ships in the Gulf."

Ben Lucien Burman, as well as being the author of "Mississippi," the river novel which Edward J. O'Brien has called the best book to come out of America this year and which Blanche Colton Williams terms magnificent, is something of an expert in magic and foodism. On a recent trip to the South when the negro servant of one of his hosts was about to quit the country because of a spell placed on him by a local hoodoo doctor, Mr. Burman, through knowledge acquired among the Arabs when he and his wife were living in a remote oasis in the Sahara desert, accurately diagnosed the case and was able to contrive a counter charm. The talisman proved so potent that the power of the hoodoo doctor was forever broken, a fact which recent letters from the bewitched one's employer have authenticated. So sacred is the magician's code that Mr. Burman declines to reveal the secret even to his publishers. He has, however, confided to them a marvelous charm guaranteed to remove warts.

A large number of letters from influential New Englanders are reaching The Century Co., publishers of "Changing New England" by Edward E. Whiting, congratulating publisher and author on a book which catches both the serious and the jocund sides of New England life. Mr. Whiting, whose column of wit and comment is a regular feature of The Boston Herald, is an authority on everything pertaining to New England from Puritanism to apple pie.

Two Philadelphia artists have combined to produce a comprehensive volume on "Early American Costume" which Century will publish on October 25. The collaborators are Edward Warwick, painter, lecturer and instructor at the Pennsylvania School of Industrial Art and Henry Fitz, widely known as an illustrator of fine books for children and adults. "Early American Costume" traces not only the changes in costume in the 17th and 18th centuries but the conditions of life which were responsible for those changes. It is illustrated with numerous paintings by old masters illustrating the dress of the period and with hundreds of detailed drawings by the authors.

NATIONAL AUTO SHOW OPENS IN NEW YORK

New York—(AP)—The thirtieth annual National Automobile show opens today in Grand Central palace, with 500 of the automotive world displayed by 46 American and two foreign manufacturers.

Each of the four floors of the palace has a color scheme of its own in the decoration plan for the show. The first floor is in cardinal red, the second in golden brown the third in mignonette and the fourth in tropical blue.

The trend toward eight-cylinder motors is emphasized in this year's exhibition in which approximately half of the cars on display have power plants of the eight-cylinder type as compared with about a dozen last year. A 16-cylinder model is exhibited by Cadillac and two front-wheel drive cars built by the Ford and Ruxton companies are being shown.

CHURCH TO OBSERVE THREE ANNIVERSARY DATES THIS YEAR

1930 Marks Important Epoch in History of Presbyterian Congregation

With the celebration of a triple anniversary during 1930, the coming of the new year marks an important epoch in the history of Memorial Presbyterian church in this city. The observance of three anniversaries, the eightieth of the first service of Presbyterians in Appleton, the sixtieth of the organization of the church, and the fiftieth of the dedication of the church edifice, will begin at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, when the pastor, the Rev. R. A. Garrison, will explain the objectives for the coming year.

The program of activities in celebration of the three events will extend throughout the year. Some of the most interesting affairs scheduled are the service commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of the church edifice on Feb. 15, the historical pageant to be presented by the Home Builders on April 8, the Eightieth anniversary of the first service by Presbyterians in Appleton, Sept. 7, and the sixtieth anniversary supper, Nov. 13.

Some of the objectives which the officers and anniversary committee have planned and toward which the members of the congregation are bending their efforts are the deepening of the spiritual life of the congregation and the entrance upon an era of greater service to the life of the city, the doubling of the attendance of the church school, the enlistment of 60 new members and workers, the liquidation of all financial obligations, and the creation of an organ fund.

The names of many Appleton families still active in the church appear in local Presbyterian history through the period to be celebrated, some names being present in the church history as early as the first meeting of Presbyterians. Some of these are the David Smith, J. R. Wood, D. H. Shannon, William Milmin, John Paterson, Edgar M. Pratt, Samuel Cowan, Cornelius Donkersley, James Watson, Orlando Clark, A. H. Conkey, E. N. Johnson, George W. Gerry and John Anderson families. The oldest living member of the church is Mrs. D. H. Shannon, 844 E. South-st., who united with the church Jan. 11, 1880.

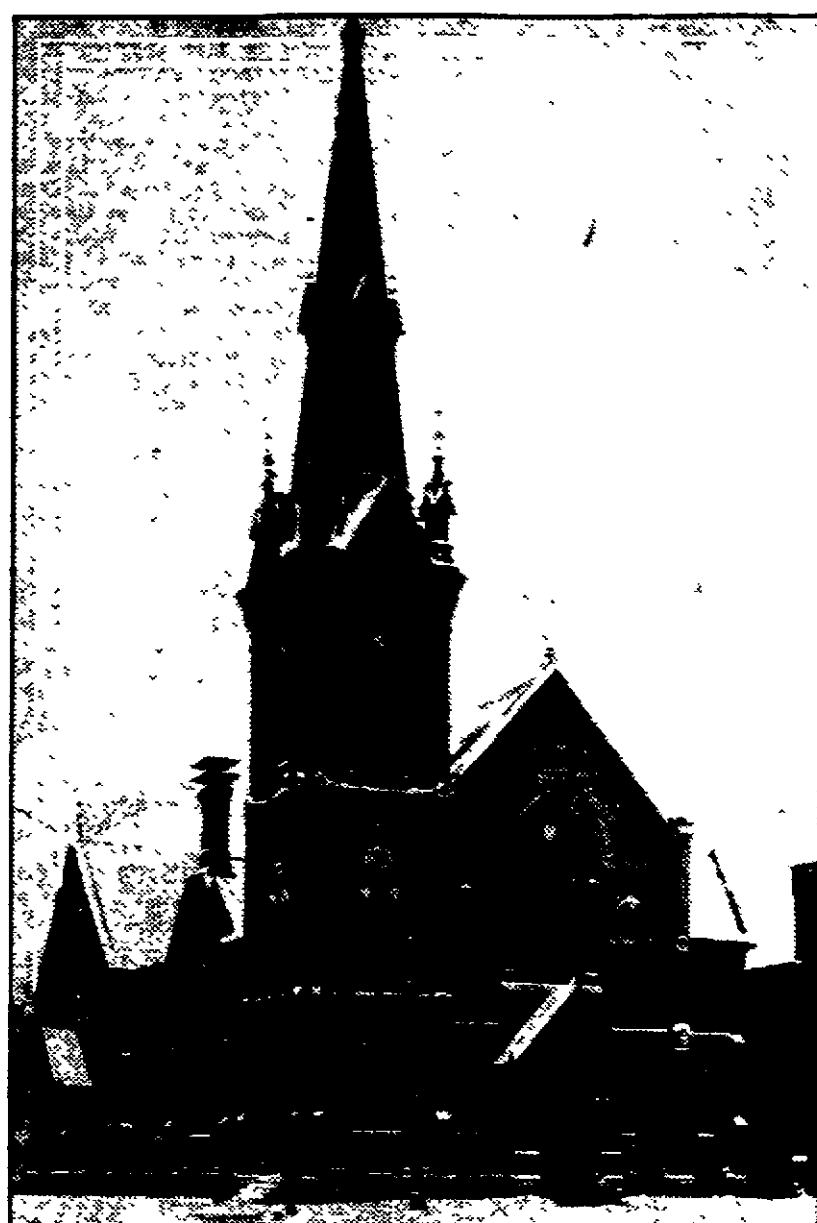

Ministers of the church who still are active are Dr. Herbert M. Moore, president of Lake Forest college, Lake Forest, Ill.; the Rev. Leo R. Burrows, D. D., pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Jamestown, N. Y.; the Rev. Ernest W. Wright, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Menominee, Mich.; the Rev. Virgil B. Scott, D. D., dean of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo. The Rev. Garrison became pastor of the church in December, 1928.

An anniversary booklet of 12 pages giving historical data and the anniversary program, has been published and will be distributed to the members and friends of the church next week.

Talks To Parents

INDIVIDUALS
BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE
Few parents are able to see their children with the objectivity of a friend of mine who, when her newborn baby was brought to her, merely said, "Well, he certainly is ugly but he seems to be healthy so I guess he's all right."
Throughout his babyhood and early childhood she persisted in regarding him as an individual toward whom she had undertaken certain responsibilities and whom she happily found extremely delightful and interesting.
As a result of her thoroughly detached attitude her boy has developed a distinct personality and an unusual degree of emotional independence along with a very happy and affectionate disposition.

Not many of us are able to see our children as the distinct individuals which in fact they are. We see them rather as a part of ourselves or as an echo of some relative, loved or unloved as the case may be.

We tend to project upon them the qualities of the person we feel that they resemble or we identify certain phases of their development with our own at the same age. While these tendencies sometimes lead to genuine sympathy between parent and child, they quite as often cause the reverse.

Of course children very often turn out to be like other members of the family, but the fact does not warrant our laying down a pattern to which we then proceed to try to make the child conform. The effect of this sort of treatment upon the child is to hamper his development.

Two demonstrations are to be given by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, and Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader, at the two-day farm institute next Tuesday and Wednesday at the institute. On Wednesday afternoon Miss Thompson and Miss Klein will cooperate in giving a talk and a demonstration on the Use of Dairy Products for Health. On Tuesday afternoon Miss Thompson will give talks on Kvazning Vases and the Health of the Housewife in connection with her household duties. These two features will be part of the special program planned for women who attend the two day institute.

The institute is being arranged by the state and county health departments and the Horticultural Commercial club. During the day there will be addresses and discussions of interest to farmers and in the evening there will be programs of entertainment.

Speakers at the institute will include Gus Sell, county agent, T. J. Pattison, a practical farmer who is to be director of the institute, H. M. Knapp of the state department of

Lake Trout Scarce, But Can Be Caught In State

BY B. A. CLAFIN

In preceding articles I have outlined waters which afford good fishing for bass, muskies, wall-eyed pike and trout. In this short sketch I shall mention two of the other varieties, one of which, the lake trout, is not generally fished for, because of lack of knowledge of where and how to get him.

One of the keenest days of sport I ever enjoyed was spent on a trout lake, in Vilas-co. On that day we made a fine catch of "Nemacystus" some of the fish weighing up to 15 pounds. I have angled for him in a launch in Lake Superior, on the Keweenaw, Michigan, but did not "kick" out of it that I have one of our inland lakes, although one of the members of our party, on the Lake Superior trip landed one weighing 22 pounds. Nor were these fish as good eating, being the "Siscowettes" and extremely fat.

For the reason of their adipose characteristics, however, the Indians of the north country prefer them to any other variety of fish.

In fishing Trout Lake, you will do best if you use shiny wobblers, let them down many fathoms, especially during the hot weather of mid-summer. There are times, though, when it is possible to land this fish along the shores of this and other lakes by using flies in the shallow water. At times they come up to feed on minnows and if you happen to be on the job at such times you will not find them difficult to coax into striking. The same condition applies to Black Oak Lake near Cranston.

Pearl wobblers are very effective for this particular fishing. Get them in good size and use about a 12 inch wire leader of any kind. I should add that no better table fare is served here than the lake trout, especially if he is stuffed and cooked in a good sized fish.

Another fish I want to mention in this article is the Lake Trout men. Contrary to what many anglers exist in different waters of Wisconsin, and can be taken in a lake and line. Here is a tip for you: seek the unusual in angling. Trout Lake in Marinette is a good one. The pleasure of fishing and the two fine specimens of the fish were taken from that lake. They were used and the fish were brought from the deepest part of the lake. On this way of identifying the is the fact that, while they resemble in other characteristics the rainbow, they do not have the iridescent side striped peculiar to that fish. They are far better eating. Their meal is pinkish and they have the flavor of the Brook trout, rather than that of his brother.

In my next article I shall describe some real waters for taking the Northern pike, the "shark" of our fresh waters.

Night Coughing Quickly Relieved

Famous Prescription Gives Almost Instant Relief

Night coughs or coughs caused by a cold or an irritated throat are usually due to causes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. But the very first swallow of Throatine is guaranteed to stop the most stubborn cough almost instantly. Throatine is a doctor's prescription, working on an entirely different principle. It gives direct relief to the internal cause. Throatine contains no harmful drugs, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Sold on a money back guarantee to give better and quicker relief for coughs or sore throats than anything else ever sold. Ask for Throatine, put up in a box or in the bottle and get it. ## - Chevrolet announces

THE GREATEST CHEVROLET

IN CHEVROLET HISTORY

Today, Chevrolet presents the Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History—a smoother, faster, better Six—with beautiful new bodies by Fisher.

Basically, it is the same sturdy, substantial Six which won such tremendous popularity in 1929. But it is a greater car in every way—for there are scores of vital improvements which contribute to comfort, performance, endurance and safety!

An improved six-cylinder valve-in-head motor, with its capacity increased to 50 horsepower; four Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers; fully-enclosed internal-expanding weather-proof brakes; a new dash gasoline gauge; heavier and stronger rear axle; new Fisher non-glare windshield; larger tires—these are typical of the many improvements which make this car the Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History.

But most impressive of all—this smoother, faster, better Six has been made available—

- at greatly reduced prices!

During 1929, more than a million three hundred thousand persons bought six-cylinder Chevrolets. This enormous volume has made possible many savings in the Chevrolet factories—and, in keeping with its long-established policy, Chevrolet is sharing these savings with the public. No written description can do justice to the extra value and quality provided in this new car. Visit your Chevrolet dealer—see this car—ride in it—and judge for yourself its sensational value.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE LOSES FIRST GAME TO ALUMNI, 26-17

Former Neenah Stars Are Too Strong for Jorgenson Team

Neenah—The alumni basketball team which took part last year in the state tournament at Madison defeated the high school team 25 to 17 Friday evening in the new school gymnasium.

Starting with Bell at center, Neubauer and Hahl at forwards, and Ehlers and G. Johnson as guards, the high school team worked well. Substitutions placed Schmidt, Clough Barnes and Thomsen into the game in the third and last quarters. The fresh combination helped to run the score from five point at the end of the half to 17 points at the finish while the alumni team doubled its score.

The Alumni started with Schneller at center, M. Johnson and Grogan at guards and Thermanson and Grogan at forwards. Hase and Gaertner at forwards. Hase and Hewitt both substituted. Harry Johnson started the game with a neat basket from half way down the floor, followed by a short one by Bell before the alumni tallied a point. Then Thermanson, Schneller, Hase and Gaertner scored in the first half, placing their team in a safe lead which it maintained throughout the game. Johnson, Hase, Thermanson and Hewitt scored in the last half.

Proceeding the main game, the second squad divided into two teams, and whites, played a fast game, resulting in a win 19 and 7, for the red team which was composed of Wilbur Jensen, Ozzane, Koerwitz, Toeppeler, Madsen, Durnsio, Goertner, Starfield and H. Neubauer. The losing team was composed of Eisenstein, Kuehl, Dingle, Jensen, Elyow, Rusch, Metternick, Owen and Thomack.

The summary:

CHURCH BROTHERHOOD MEETS SUNDAY NIGHT

Neenah—Edwin T. Randall, executive secretary of the Methodist Brotherhood, will have charge of the 7:30 meeting Sunday evening at the First Methodist church. All men of the Fraternity club and church are urged to hear Mr. Randall. He also will be the speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of Fraternity club which will follow a dinner at 6:30 in the church dining room.

OFFICIALS ACT TO PROTECT ICE RINKS

Neenah—People who trespass on the city's ice rinks before the ice is in condition will be arrested according to city officials. The city has flooded the rinks, including the hockey rink, on several occasions but before the ice was frozen again they appeared and spoiled it. The street department scraped and flooded the Columbian park rink Friday evening.

MRS. SCHULTZ HEADS LADIES' AID SOCIETY

Neenah—Mrs. Olga Schwaerlin has been elected president of Trinity Lutheran Ladies' Aid society. Other officers elected are Mrs. August Kehl, vice president; Mrs. Ernest Nye, secretary; Mrs. Julius Hersfeldt, treasurer; Mrs. Adolph Sell, assistant treasurer. Mrs. Herman Koerwitz, Mrs. Fred Krumpfen, Mrs. William Hardt, Mrs. Emil Blank, Mrs. William Bohman and Mrs. William Dahlman as committee women. The latter two will be in charge of sewing.

FIRE LOSS TOTALS $36,282 LAST YEAR

Largest Conflagration Is That Which Destroyed Oelke Fuel Yard

Neenah—The fire loss in 1929 was $36,282.14, according to Louis Rausch, chief of the fire department. The entire loss was covered by insurance. The largest fire during the year was that which destroyed the Oelke fuel yards and buildings.

The department made 167 runs, laid 12,900 feet of hose, and raised 872 feet of ladder last year. The booster tank was used 11 times, pyrene extinguishers, nine times; the sodium acid used totaled 146 1-2 gallons and foamite, 17 1-2 gallons.

The department conducted 1,355 fire inspections, 265 electrical inspections and 290 furnace inspections. The ambulance, which is under the jurisdiction of the fire department, answered 255 summons.

The most disastrous fire was that at the Wilms' farm in August when several firemen were seriously burned by explosion of an oil tank.

NEENAH CLUB RESUMES MONDAY NOON LUNCHEONS

Neenah—The Monday noon luncheon inaugurated several years ago by the Neenah club will be resumed Monday, Jan. 6, for the 1930. The speakers committee composed of E. Mahow, E. M. Hutton, W. G. Brown, Arthur Ritger and D. W. Dunham, has planned the schedule for the year. The committee responsible for the speaker for the four Mondays of January includes Frank J. Schneller, J. G. Frizzen, H. M. Brown and Fred W. Benson. A speaker of statewide prominence has been secured for the opening. The committee appointed to serve Monday is composed of the officers and directors, Arthur Ritger, E. M. Hutton, D. W. Dunham, W. G. Brown, Carl Gerhardt, Ambrose Owen, R. D. Malzow and J. W. Powers.

ISSUE ADMINISTRATION LETTERS IN BIG ESTATE

Neenah—Letters of administration in the $32,000 estate of Helen M. Schoepel, Neenah, have been issued to E. F. Fierewer. Miss Schoepel died in Nevada a few weeks ago. The letters were issued on petition of Miss Edith Schoepel, a sister of the deceased and the only heir-at-law. There was a will, but it was found to have been improperly executed.

Final judgment has been made in the estate of Christ N. Madison, Neenah. There was a residue of $10,490.95 in the Madison estate in addition to real estate in Neenah. The property was divided among seven children and a number of grand children, children of two deceased heirs.

Final judgment also has been made in the will of David Williams, Neenah. A residue of $10,000 and real estate goes to John Williams, a son, and the only heir.

The will of Mrs. Winnifred J. Vincent, Neenah, has been admitted to probate on a petition recently filed. Personal property valued at $6,000 is divided between two daughters. Miss Mabel W. Vincent of Minneapolis is to obtain three fourths of the property and one fourth is to go to Mrs. Jean E. Lampert of Neenah.

FARM WEEK PROGRAM PLANNED THIS MONTH

Neenah—A Winnebago-co farm week program, the first of its kind in this vicinity, was planned at a meeting of farmers and business men Thursday evening at the office of O. P. Cuff, county agent. A four-day institute is to be held at Winnebago beginning Tuesday, Jan. 14. The event will be given under auspices of the Winnebago Business men's association with farmers and the county agent assisting.

The first two days will be devoted to a farm institute program. The remaining days will be for livestock exhibits and demonstrations. The annual Livestock Dairymen's association banquet will be held Thursday, Jan. 16. The institute will close with an old time dance.

TRANSFER NEW LONDON TO NEENAH DISTRICT

Neenah—New London high school, which has been in the Oconto district of the North-eastern Interscholastic Athletic association conference, has been transferred to the Neenah district. This information was received Friday afternoon by Coach Ole Jorgenson from R. J. McMahon, superintendent of New London school who was here to inspect the new high school building. He was accompanied by J. Koten, instructor.

CAGERS DEFEATED AT CLINTONVILLE

Menasha Loses in Last Minute by Score of 14 to 13

Menasha—Menasha high school basketball team lost its first conference game to Clintonville Friday night in the last minute of play, 13 to 14. The visitors were in the lead 7 to 4 at the close of the first half. Clintonville featured in long shots, while Menasha showed up well in defensive work. Very few substitutions were made during the game by the visiting team.

St. Mary high school basketball team also was defeated Friday night 13 to 10 by St. Mary high school alumni team in its first home game. The two teams were more evenly matched than the score would indicate.

NEENAH BOWLING TEAM LOSES AT KAUKAUNA

Neenah—First National Bank three-man bowling team went to Kaukauna Friday evening to roll in the Fox River Valley tournament. It lost three out of four games on the Hilgenberg alley team by one, two and three pins. The five-man team will go to Fond du Lac Sunday afternoon to roll the Alhambra team in the mid-west league.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS SEAT NEW OFFICERS

Neenah—Neenah chapter E. A. M. installed its recently elected officers Friday evening at a meeting at Masonic temple. F. E. Mace was installing officer and N. C. Jersild was installing marshal. The officers are George Klinek, high priest; E. E. Lampert, king; Albert Joseph, scribe; R. Barnes, treasurer; O. W. Jones, secretary; Dan Howman, captain of the host; George Barnes, principle journeyman; Sam Williams, Royal Arch captain; E. A. Nyman, first veil; Orville Steible, second veil; George Littlefield, third veil; John Roberts, sentinel.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO RESUME WORK MONDAY

Menasha—The public schools will resume their work Monday morning after a two week holiday vacation. Most of the teachers who spent their vacations at their respective homes are expected to return Sunday.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Mrs. F. Tyrrell entertained the Third Ward Royal Neighbors club Friday evening. Schafkopf and bridge were played and among the prize winners were Mrs. Agnes Jorgenson, Mrs. Agnes Obrigt, Mrs. Anna Fahrbach, Miss Margaret Gerzhty, Mrs. Alvina Arnett, Mrs. Verma McAndrews and Mrs. Martha Boernson. It was decided to hold the annual banquet at Conway hotel, Appleton, Thursday evening, Jan. 9.

Sanctuary society of St. Patrick church will hold its next card party Monday afternoon and evening at St. Patrick school hall. Mrs. Harry Kampe will be chairman.

Schafkopf prizes at the card party given by the ladies of St. John church Thursday evening were won by Mrs. J. Spang, Mrs. A. Teitz, Mike Sylwanowicz, Mike Zolowski, rummy, Mrs. F. Kingowski, B. Coopman, Mrs. B. Dryer, Ray Romel; whist, Miss Anna Schreiber, Theodore Beach. Thirty-eight tables were in play.

EAGLES TO DECIDE ON ERECTION OF BUILDING

Menasha—The Fraternal Order of Eagles will meet next Thursday evening. The erection of the proposed new building, for which sketches have been submitted, will be decided. The need of a large auditorium to accommodate the rapidly growing membership was felt more than ever at the last annual Christmas party when the Menasha auditorium was crowded to the doors with members and their families and the congestion is becoming greater each year. The members have all the land they need for expansion and also have a good start on their building fund. Two propositions, it is said, will be presented at the meeting, one to arrange for erecting the entire new structure at once and the other to erect only the auditorium at present. The auditorium will be built at the rear of the present building and will run back to the government canal. A building costing approximately $200,000 in contemplated.

LABOR SITUATION IN MENASHA IS FAVORABLE

Menasha—That the labor situation in Menasha is good is evidenced by the fact that very few of the industrial plants closed during the holidays. A few of the mills were closed for Christmas to make it possible for employees to enjoy the day with their families, but the most of them continued in operation on New Years. Owing to the favorable weather for construction work there was very little respite over the holidays at the new building of the Marathon Paper company.

HIGH SCHOOL CAGERS IN HOME GAME FRIDAY

Menasha—The Battle des Morts gymnasium with its new stage and balcony, the latter with a seating capacity of approximately 300, will be used for basketball next Friday evening for the first time, when Menasha high school basketball team will play its first home conference game with New London. The gymnasium now has one of the largest floors and seating capacities of any auditorium in Menasha and the stage facilities for putting on plays and entertainments are among the best in the Twin Cities. In designing the stage the architects paid special attention to the acoustics. The dressing rooms are located below the stage.

MENASHA PERSONALS

Menasha—Prof. and Mrs. R. G. Browne, who have been spending their holiday vacation with Mrs. Browne's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John Best, returned Saturday to Normal, Ill., where Prof. Browne is engaged in teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Meyer and Mrs. William Streck visited Kaukauna friends Saturday.

Miss Margaret Hendy is spending the weekend at Milwaukee, the guest of Miss Joan Hall.

THREE-MAN LEAGUE IN WEEKLY PIN MATCHES

Menasha—George Pierce Agency of Menasha Major three men league won three out of four games from Clothes Shop Friday night at the weekly match at Hendy recreation alley; Kaukauna won three out of four games from First National Bank of Neenah; and Shamrock Trio and Loop Cafe broke even on two games each. Malout of the Loop Cafe team rolled 245 for high score and $89 for high series. His individual games were 208, 245, 214 and 202.

Scores:

Geo. Pierce Ag.	563	572	563	568
Clothes Shop	529	480	622	530
First Natl. Bank	532	538	516	573

Vike, M. U. Cagers Meet Tonight In Milwaukee

HILLTOP FIVE HOLDS EDGE OVER VIKING QUINTET

Have Met and Defeated Many of Midwest's Strongest Teams

UNDEFEATED but hardly impressive in three starts previous to the holidays, Lawrence college basketball team Saturday invades Marquette university gymnasium for its first game this season with the Hilltoppers.

The Vikings Friday night completed a week's workout after a vacation during Christmas week, workouts that called for morning and afternoon drills, the latter usually scrimmage sessions against former high school cage stars home for the holidays and Lawrence freshmen who live in Appleton.

The frosh have made proceedings highly interesting for the varsity and have caused them no end of trouble. With Benny Rafoltz jumping center, Bobby Kunitz, and Mike Goch-nauer at guards and several other local cagers filling in the lineup they have led the varsity a merry chase.

Kunitz and Goch-nauer at guards have forgotten none of the Tricks that made them ranking cagers in the Fox river valley conference last year while Rafoltz shows promise of developing into as good a center as ever wore a Viking uniform. Rafoltz and Goch-nauer both are members of the Lawrence frosh team and will be available for the varsity next year.

MARQUETTE STRONG

Lawrence will have its hands full at Saturday's battle down at Milwaukee for the Hilltoppers have one of the best teams in several years. A new coach, Cord Lipe, formerly of Illinois, has taken over the Gold this season and has driven them to victory in several of the best squads in the middle west.

Lipe has a squad of veteran cagers who have assimilated his style play with ease and loom powerful both on offense and defense. Among the members of the team to have appeared on Appleton courts before are Jimmy O'Donnell, forward, Andrews, guard, King and Gonyo guards.

Veteran cagers will be thrown against the Hilltoppers by Coach Arthur C. Denney, but in this case victory means no mean much. That Denney is not positive of his team's offensive ability is best shown by the long time he has spent drilling the men on defense.

Inability to shoot baskets is the biggest fault of the Vikings. Time after time they drive in under the basket on perfectly executed plays only to miss the hoop by the proverbial mile. Present day basketball with a premium on perfect shooting finds the Vikings terribly weak. Unless they improve suddenly Lawrence is going to lose several games this season and that goes for Saturday night's battle, too.

SHIRES TO APPEAR BEFORE COMMISSION

Baseball's Bad Boy Attacks Press; Says Reputation Is Being Spoiled

Detroit (AP)—James (Bingo) Brown, chairman of the Michigan State Boxing commission, said at the close of the Ebbetts-Oster bout here last night that the case of Arthur (The Grizz) Shires, under the commission's ban in Michigan for an alleged attempt to bribe Battling Criss, Michigan boxer, would be taken up at a meeting of the commission with newspapermen here this afternoon. The meeting originally was scheduled for Jan. 9, at Lansing.

The time of the meeting was advanced at the instance of Shires, who said he was innocent and declared he would "stick around in Detroit until the whole matter is threshed out, no matter how long it took."

Criss' manager made the charge that an undisclosed sum of money had been offered Shires to make a flop.

"I'll be a flop or I'll cancel my next fight and see this thing through to the end," he said today. "I don't know what the fight was after. I don't know what it's all about. But I want it straightened out and I want to make those newspapermen quit printing all this knock-out against me. I don't want anybody to lay down on me. This stuff is liable to ruin my whole boxing career as well as my basketball reputation."

Shires was to have a second Harry Ebbetts in his belt here, but the commission's ruling against him prevented his appearance in an official capacity.

However, he sat in the press row at the match and when the fight threatened to stop the semi-bell referee called for his appearance he received the sanction of Commissioner Brown to take a bow.

PURDUE GRIDDERS TO GET GOLD FOOTBALLS

Lafayette, Ind. (AP)—Twenty-eight miniature gold footballs inscribed "1929 Western Conference Champions," today were ready for distribution to members of the Purdue gridders squad.

Noble Kiser, successor to Coach Phelan, will be presented as head of the football coach, and members will be given gold letter winners by the halves of the Purdue-Michigan basketball game at LaFayette, Jan. 11.

Wisconsin Five Primed To Trim Northwestern; Chicago Meets Butler

Badgers Keep Pre-conference Slate Clean With Four Victories

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Another Western Conference basketball championship campaign will be inaugurated tonight at Evanston where Wisconsin and Northwestern will play the final league game.

For Wisconsin the contest will be the first gesture toward a second consecutive season at the top of the list. The Badgers shared the title with Michigan in 1929, winning 10 games and losing two. Both defeats were accomplished by Michigan. Northwestern and Illinois were the teams able to down the Wolverines. Northwestern finished fourth in the 1929 year, winning seven games

BILLY WALLACE GETS $3,000 AND SCOLDING

Milwaukee (AP)—Billy Wallace to-day sped east with his $3,000 share of the purse from the King Tut fight and with nothing more than a reprimand from the State Boxing commission.

He admitted yesterday that he was guilty of excessive holding, clinching too much and failing to hear the referee's warning in his bout with Tut, which the latter won.

The commission, which had withheld his purse pending a hearing, cautioned him and then gave him the $3,000.

ROACH SPORTS DROP ANOTHER CAGE GAME

Lose to Wolverine Five in Older Boy League at Y. M. C. A.

Roach Sport Shop basketball team in the Older Boys league of the Y. M. C. A. took another wallop on the chin Thursday afternoon when it was defeated by the Wolverines in the only game played. The score was 18 and 5.

Inability to drop the ball through the hoop cost the Sport Shop team the game for it was not until the fourth quarter that a single field goal was tallied. The score at the end of the first half was 6 and 1 for the Wolverines.

SEE GREAT OUTLOOK FOR BOXING MATCHES DURING COMING YEAR

Association to Insist Upon Activity by Title-holders in 1930

BY STANLEY M. ISAACS
President, National Boxing Association

Cincinnati (AP)—The outlook is great for boxing in 1930 with new champions and less confusion in the sport than ever before. The National Boxing association intends to insist upon activity by title-holders to the end that championships will have real meaning and merit.

As left over from the old year features of the disputed championship classes slide up as follows:

Among the Panamweights, Al Brown is the recognized American champion with the world's title open. This situation should be settled as soon as it is possible to get Brown and Teddy Baldock, the Englishman, in the ring, assuming Baldock can make the 115-pound limit.

The middleweight world is open with no immediate possibility of determining the champion.

The light heavyweight title is also open, with Max Baer and Mickey Walker entitled to serious consideration if he annoys his intention to abandon the middle weights.

The heavyweight world's title is open with Jack Sharkey holding the American championship and Max Baer the world's title-holder.

With the coming of the new year the National Boxing association finds itself with a roster of 21 states, Canada and Porto Rico as members, with affiliations with the following: British Boxing board of control, Cuban National Boxing commission, Commission Mexicana de Boxe, also Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, Spain, France, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg, Portugal, Argentina, Roumania, Sweden, Switzerland, Transvaal and Austria, through the International Boxing union. Completed international harmony is obstructed only by the absence of New York, Massachusetts, California and Pennsylvania from the N. B. A. membership but the most friendly relations in history exists with these states, amounting almost to complete affiliation in the cases of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The wrestling committee of the N. B. A. will report Jan. 25 with uniform rules to govern this sport. The definite position of each class will be announced before Feb. 1 and the champion recognized in each class, where no possible dispute exists, with the requirement that each champion post a forfeit insuring proper title defense quarterly. In classes where dispute exists, men will be named for immediate competition under forfeit conditions to determine the champion. The N. B. A. will not tolerate delay or any probability of continued pursuit of tactics which have caused confusion of wrestling in the past.

Speaker, Robinson Deny Reports About Manager

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Tris Speaker may become manager of the Brooklyn club of the National league, but neither he nor apparently any else in authority has been contacted about the matter.

A few hours after a New York newspaper had published reports that Speaker would manage the club while Walter Robinson, now president-manager of the Robins would confine himself to executive duties, Speaker and Robinson both issued denials that such a move was contemplated.

Speaker, who is under contract to manage the Newark Club of the International league for 1930, said at Dallas, Texas, that as far as he knew there was no foundation for the report.

"My contract with the Newark club has another year to run," said the former Cleveland outfielder. "And I have been at work this winter trying to round together a strong team involving some changes in the personnel. All my baseball thoughts have been with the Newark club. I positively have had no conversations with Newark regarding leaving there nor with Brooklyn concerning entering its organization."

At Brunswick, Ga., Robinson characterized the report as "state league stuff," and said he had heard nothing of the report.

"I'm president and manager of the club," Robinson said, "and I've heard nothing anyone else taking over the manager's job."

James P. Shinnott, president of the Newark club, entered the picture with an announcement that he had not been approached either by Speaker or the Brooklyn club with the idea of having the "Grey Eagle" released from his contract obligations with Newark.

"If Brooklyn sought his services," said the Newark president, "the owners certainly would have got in touch with me."

According to the published report, the decision to name Speaker was a compromise between the warring factions which have torn the Brooklyn club with dissension for several years. Robinson, backed by the Ebbetts brothers, heads one group with W. McKeever the other. McKeever opposes Robinson either as president or manager.

Appleton amateur fight talent will feature the next show to be presented by the Appleton post of the Appleton legion, according to plans now shaping up, and at least three Appleton youths will crawl into the ring Thursday, Jan. 23 to do battle.

Jack Wolf, slugging 149 pounder will again show on the amateur card and has started getting in condition for whoever the legion may dig up for him. He has requested someone who is considered "tough" so that he will be forced to show his best for many Appleton enthusiasts who have shown interest in his activities. Promoters of the bouts now are looking around for someone from Milwaukee who measures up to Wolf's ability.

The other two Appleton boys are from Lawrence college although one is a local youth. They are Bob English, decently light weight, and Tommy Ryan, Appleton, English is a veteran boxer who appeared on several programs last winter in Milwaukee and the valley having considerable success until he broke a hand at Oshkosh. Ryan has not the experience of his opponent but he is a rugged chap with plenty of confidence and feels he can give English a merry time.

The proposed bout between Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, and Windy Thomas of New London has been shelved at least for the time being. Thomas is about seven pounds lighter than Ahl and for the latter to dry out until he reaches the required weight is not considered quite fair. Were Ahl to come in at Thomas' weight he probably would be so weak he would be unable to put up a real battle.

Promoters now are searching for someone who can give Ahl a real battle at his best weight and intend to use the bout as the headline. In the meantime some Milwaukee chap will be secured to battle Thomas, probably Fricke, one of the 125 pounders of last month's bill.

Gossens and Versteegen are concerned. Gossens sank 10 fields goals to score half of his team's points. Versteegen shot seven field goals. The final score was 41-16. Shoemaker was high scorer for Stockbridge with four field goals.

FIVE DAYS LEFT TO ENTER STATE BOWLING TOURNEY

Expect New Entry Record to Be Set at Oshkosh Tournament

BY WM. F. FENSKE
Secretary W. B. A.

A STEADY increase of entries from all local localities throughout the state for the coming state bowling tournament to be held at Oshkosh opening Jan. 21 to Feb. 25 has caused a prediction that the world record mark of 1270 teams made in 1925 when the tournament was held in Milwaukee will be exceeded this year and it really begins to look as though Oshkosh would increase its own quota of entries to the tournament for in the past ten days there has been a leveling up of the promoters and boosters in the old time Savid city.

John Kunitz, Mickey Eroy, Connie Radt and others in Oshkosh connected with the promotion of the tournament have been bustling night and day to place before the business public the necessity of supporting the tournament by entering teams.

All the champions of last year when the tournament was bowled at Sheboygan have entered and good marks are looked for at Oshkosh as the alleys have been installed for two years so they are thoroughly seasoned by this time and will be prepared and prepared just before the opening so that they should be lightening fast and splendid totals should be turned in by all the bowlers. Well seasoned and perfectly dry pins await the bowlers again this year and in fact all the setting for the tournament seems to be made to order for convenience, service and high scores.

The entries will close on Thursday, Jan. 9.

It will take a score better than 3,000 to win the championship this year and the 3,015 score of the Milwaukee Sausage team, champions at Sheboygan, will most assuredly be beaten.

During the past 27 years of competition in the Wisconsin state tournament the total of 1930 has only been beaten once and that was at Madison in 1925 when the Hoyer-Mulen combination turned in 1755 but Hoyer was obliged to bowl a perfect score of 300 in this series to reach the 1200 mark. Reidel and Miller of Milwaukee came within two pins at Sheboygan of the 1200 mark when they totaled 1225.

During the past ten years eight bowlers have been crowned individual champions, the palm going to G. George DeFere last year with a score of 749.

George DeFere was also the all-time champion. When he bowled 641 in his three games of the five men it was not noticed. In the two men he simply wandered along with an ordinary total of 546 and was figured completely out of the all-time possibility, but when he finished his second game of the individual event with 266 after a 235 start in the first game, the crowd began to take notice. He never fathered when he needed the pins in his last game and pulled up in the stretch with a fine game of 237 giving him 749 and both the all-time championship with a good total for his nine games of 1935 which is a fairly good all event total. J. Clausen of Neenah holds the all-time record with a total of 2091 bowled in 1925 at Madison.

Entries positively close at midnight Jan. 9, and no entries will be received in person after that date. Entries received in the mails will not be accepted if they bear the post office mark of any date after Jan. 10 at 10 o'clock, so it behooves the bowlers upstate to mail their entries a few days early so that they will be accepted and also that they will be able to secure a better choice of dates.

The Secret of Mohawk Pond

SYNOPSIS: Complying with the strange conditions of her uncle's will, Peggy Prescott takes up her residence at Yew Lodge, on Mohawk Pond, in Connecticut, with only her negro maid, Julia, as a companion. Herbert Prescott, eccentric brother of Peggy's father, stipulated that she reside at Yew Lodge for "a day and a month," never absenting herself for more than one hour during that period, at the price of losing her inheritance. She enters the lodge to find a silent figure with swarthy skin and glowing eyes who seats her at the dinner table, places a soup tureen before her and vanishes. Inside the tureen lies a cocked pistol.

Steps led upward to a slanting cellar entrance and Peggy mounted them, only to find that the two doors were evidently locked on the outside. To the left of the steps were large cupboards, partitioned off. The further cupboard was padlocked and none of the keys fitted it.

"Tain't no use o' worryin' 'bout that, Miss Peggy," consoled Julia practically. "Ef der's ennything inside dat closet, can't git out dis a-way. Dere ain't no ice box down hyar, an' it's awful dirty. Come away home; I'll clean it up—mebbe."

The reservation was made under her breath as Julia glimpsed something crawling a short distance from them.

CHAPTER 2
THE LOCKED CUPBOARD

Peggy awoke to be surprised by Julia who brought a breakfast tray to her bedroom.

"Dis heah an' da berry bes' I kin do with the tings in de kitchen; thar ain't no eggs, nor butter, nor milk—jes' maffin' but what yo' see," Julia explained.

The tray contained a steaming pot of black coffee, deliciously crisp bacon and the toasted bread—the latter salvaged from the lunch kit they had brought.

Peggy wasted little time in eating breakfast and finished her dressing in less than 30 minutes. She paused before the mirror and surveyed herself. She patted her curly hair which, cut in a shingle bob, proved a most becoming frame for her piquant features and wild rose beauty.

From beneath her pillow she drew the automatic pistol she had found in the silver soup tureen. Where to hide the weapon was a question. She knew Julia's terror of a weapon of any sort.

She went into the hall which, with the railing, formed the circular gallery overlooked the living room below. It was about four feet wide and furnished with several comfortable lounging chairs, combination sectional bookcase and writing desk. Stuffed animal heads hung on the walls.

From one of the antlers of a deer head was suspended a beaded Indian pouch and into this Peggy slipped her pistol. It was of a type of automatic which she was familiar, her father's top-sergeant having taught her to shoot both revolver and pistol.

Peggy called to Julia and they went downstairs.

"Dere an' no ice box, Miss Peggy," Julia said as Peggy came downstairs. "Whar yo' speck yo' Uncle Herbert kep his butter an' eggs?"

"Have you been in the cellar?"

"No, ma'am; I ain't. Julia's creased at the question. "Is yo' gwine thar?"

"Certainly."

And taking out her key ring, supplied by Mr. Chapin, Peggy made for the servants' quarters. A short passageway from the pantry gave access to the right wing of the lodge.

The thoroughly equipped kitchen looked homelike and comfortable. It was lighted by three windows and there was a screened-in porch on which the side door opened.

Another door, also secured by a lock in which one of her keys fitted, proved to be the entrance to the cellar stairs, and Peggy descended, followed by Julia carrying a lighted candle.

Apparently the cellar extended under the entire building. At the far end they found the power system which furnished electricity for lighting the lodge.

On her left were bins filled with split wood, apparently for the range, while two of the larger bins held stove coal.

Steps led upward to a slanting cellar entrance and Peggy mounted them, only to find that the two doors were evidently locked on the outside. To the left of the steps were large cupboards, partitioned off. The further cupboard was padlocked and none of the keys fitted it.

"Tain't no use o' worryin' 'bout that, Miss Peggy," consoled Julia practically. "Ef der's ennything inside dat closet, can't git out dis a-way. Dere ain't no ice box down hyar, an' it's awful dirty. Come away home; I'll clean it up—mebbe."

CHAPTER 2

UNIFORM SIGNALS SEEN AS MEANS OF HELPING DRIVING

Expert Also Recommends Establishment of Traffic Court

BY MILLER MCCLINTOCK
Director, Albert Russell Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research, Harvard University

The recent adoption of the first official uniform state code for traffic signals by Massachusetts is one of the most important developments of the year in sane traffic control methods.

The promiscuous installation of stop and go signals has been one of the most difficult aspects of local traffic regulation to control. Such signals, when properly used,
can give very real and efficient service, but they are by no means a panacea for all traffic ills, as they serve to stop traffic as well as pass it along.

The tendency to install these signals as a means of coping with traffic has developed many different types and almost as many methods of operation and location.

Unnecessary delays and confusion caused by these conditions have led to the passage in Massachusetts of legislation which provides for basic uniformity by requiring that all traffic control signs and signals have the written approval of the Department of Public Safety.

TRAFFIC COURT NEEDED
Perhaps the most important provision in the entire code requires an actual traffic court as evidence that a signal installation is required. This prevents the installation of unnecessary signals which delay traffic and substitute sound engineering practice for what was often a matter of guesswork of opinion.

Signals installed under the new code will offer no confusion to drivers where special turning conditions are required, for additional lanes below the green light show an arrow pointing in the direction a turn can be made. Before the new code went into effect, turns on the red were made in approximately fifty per cent of the cities and towns—a condition obviously tending toward a great deal of confusion.

A flashing red light designates a through street or boulevard and requires a full stop before entering. A flashing yellow light indicates that there is some special hazard at the intersection and that the driver should proceed with caution.

Careful attention was given to locating the signals for maximum visibility. Signals must be placed in the driver's line of sight and so located as to give approaching traffic a clear signal indication from all points up to 150 feet.

WOULD ELIMINATE DELAYS
Another provision eliminates much of the present delay caused by the

LITTLE JOE

YOU, BUT ALSO GIVE THE OTHER FELLOW HIS DUES.

THE LITTLE JOE.

operation of stop and go signs during lulls in traffic. Such signals may operate only when traffic counts show their utility. At other times they must merely flash a caution signal.

Excessively long waits between lights are also prevented by basing their operation on actual traffic requirements as shown by traffic counts. Whenever signals are which in 2000 feet of each other, they must be co-ordinated for a definite through traffic speed.

Requirements for the installation of auxiliary signs insure against any confusion or misinterpretation of the signals. "Traffic Signal Ahead" on a diamond shaped sign gives advance warning of the approach to signals outside of business districts.

A motorist may travel from one end of Massachusetts to the other with the knowledge that all traffic control devices will be basically the same. With confusion and uncertainties removed, he will be in a better position to avoid accidents. He will be more inclined to obey such signals as he meets because of the knowledge that every one has been found essential and that none will delay his progress by holding him on a red light any longer than necessary.

NO EXTRATERRITORIAL ACTION NOTED IN CHINA

London—(AP)—The Exchange Tel-graph company in dispatches from Tokio today said official dispatches had revealed that Jan. 1 had passed without any action by China regarding extraterritoriality. Japan was said to be taking no notice of the proclamation pending developments.
Japan was said to have adopted the same attitude toward its nomination of Mr. Obata as minister to China. The nomination has not been withdrawn despite Nanking's rejection.

The Nanking government a few days ago proclaimed publicly it would and all privileges of extraterritoriality for foreigners, effective Jan. 1.

Athens—Premier Venizelos proposes to save Greece from danger of being "flooded by half-educated intellectuals for whom there is no work." He said so when denying the request of students of Athens university for easier examinations.
Instead he decided to limit the number of students.

STIMSON LEASES BIG HOUSE IN ENGLAND

Secretary of State Wants Homelike Atmosphere at Arms Parley

Washington—(AP)—Siding both his personal inclinations and time-honored British custom, Secretary Stimson has chosen to surround the American delegation to the London naval parley with as much homelike atmosphere and informality as is compatible with the hard work which it will face at the conference.

Not only will all the delegates and most of their principal advisers be accompanied by their wives or members of their families, but Mr. Stimson has leased a spacious country house in Middlesex where he expects to lead many informal conversations with representatives of the other powers.

He will maintain an apartment at the Fitz-Carlton, official headquarters of the delegation, but on weekends and whenever the pressure of business relaxes he will retire to the country.

Throughout his public life and especially since coming to Washington as secretary of state, Mr. Stimson has made it a practice to discuss and dispose of as many important matters as possible in the seclusion of his home.

The house selected by Mr. Stimson is the property of Sir Maurice Fitzgerald, has extensive facilities for entertainment, numbering 13 principal bedrooms. It has a private golf course and is near famous shooting and hunting country. No other American delegates are planning to establish themselves in the country, and Warren House, the Stimson residence will become an informal base for the delegation.

Reservations aboard the George Washington on which the delegation will sail next week, have been made for Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, Mrs. David Reed, Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of the ambassador to Mexico, and for the wives of Admiral Pratt, Jones, Pringle, Yarnell and Hepburn.

An escort of ten marines will be taken along but their chief function will be to serve as messengers rather than sentries.

New York—Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, sculptor, the former Gertrude Vanderbilt, is endorsing a museum of American art, which will carry on a vigorous campaign to discover fresh talent. She has presented the institution 400 paintings.

Cap And Bells Donned By Society At Palm Beach

BY HELEN VAN HOY SMITH Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Adding cap and bells to its modish attire, Palm Beach in the last few days has celebrated the official opening of that bright interval known as "the season."

The dinner dance in the orange gardens of the Everglades club on New Year's eve attracted a large and representative group.

Among those entertaining large parties were Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Smith, Toronto, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Letton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hayes, New York;
Mr. and Mrs. G. Bryan Pitts, Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. S.
Bader, Dover, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Somers Roche, Darien, Conn.;
Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Gaillard, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bode, Chicago; Mr. Cecil Parker Stewart, New York; and Mrs.
Bula Croser.

New Year's eve was the occasion for many parties at private homes, one of the largest being given by Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Long, New York, at Casa Piquet. Mr. and Mrs. Gurnee Munn, New York, gave a dinner, while guests of Mr.
and Mrs. Hutton Glover, New York, rang the old year out and the new year in, with a bell hung in the patio of the Glover home in Wilton park.

Among the late arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan who came from New York in a private car and are occupying a cottage on Sunset-ave. Accompanying them were the Prince and Princess Rayman de Faugny Leclerc and Miss Nancy Tulle of New York. Mrs.
Ryan is a daughter of Otto Kahn.

who expects to come down later in the season.

Clarence H. Geist, owner of the Chaister and Bode Katone-club, arrived on Friday from Villanova, Pa.
He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Geist, whose engagement to Von Horn Ely of Philadelphia was announced recently.

Mrs. John Emerson, (Anita) is expected from New York with her husband Jan. 15.

Rome—Public institutions here will soon obtain Mussolini's permission to name themselves after him. Too many hospitals, schools and clubs have been doing so of late.

Moscow—Motor car tires made of synthetic material devised by Soviet scientists are said by the Soviet trust to have undergone successful tests of 10,000 miles.

FEATHER SPROUTS IN THIS NEW HAT

With Brim Drooping Over Right Ear, It Is Smart to Nth Degree

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—(AP)—Of course, there is no reason whatever why a feather should not sprout from the brim of a hat like a simple fern.
The face of a cliff. It looks offensive, but it is a very graceful appendage. It turns out to be just what the doctor ordered.

If you can remember as far back as 1850, you will recall that great grandmother sometimes had upon her evening gown a pair of little puffed sleeves. Well, those puffs were with us again. They really are puffed and they just cover the shoulders. The feather hat sprouts
a buckle or ribbon protruding to hold it in place. With its brim that droops over the right ear, the hat somewhat resembles that of the Italian bersaglieri. It is smart to the nth degree.

Call it a cape, if you wish, but the newest adjunct to a London evening frock is no more or less than a glorified scarf. Of the same shade of georgette as the gown which it ornaments, the scarf ties in a bow on the left shoulder and hangs across the front and back of the decolletage and over the right arm.
Except that it is larger, this new cape is merely the bandanna scarf of yesterday, and a very graceful appendage it turns out to be.

If you can remember as far back
as 1850, you will recall that great grandmother sometimes had upon her evening gown a pair of little puffed sleeves. Well, those puffs were with us again. They really are puffed and they just cover the shoulders. The feather hat sprouts
a buckle or ribbon protruding to its lace mitts have not yet returned, you wear quantities of bracelets with these sleeves; preferably antique or near-antique ones, since the shoulder puffs denote and demand quaintness.

New York—Joe Periccone realizes that silence is golden. Joe is a barber who refrains from urging fancy work and giving his views on stocks and the like to patrons. Richard Whitney, vice president of the stock exchange, is so pleased at Joe's art minus vocalization that he is taking him on a two weeks vacation to Miami.

Berlin—Leo Walter Stein, playwright who started producing in his own theatre starring Elisabeth, former duchess of Anhalt, has committed suicide because of financial difficulties.

QUET MARKET AS SELECTED ISSUES ARE BID HIGHER

Public Utility, Motor and Merchandising Shares Lead Way

BY STANLEY W. PRENSOL
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York (AP)—Wall Street witnessed another trading market today during which pools succeeded in marking up a select assortment of public utility, motor and merchandising issues. Weed-end profit taking and "bear selling" accounting for a number of soft spots scattered throughout the list. Trading was slightly more active than yesterday, the sales for other two-hour session aggregating about 1,200,000 shares. Week-end business news threw little light on the general trend of business, although a more cheerful feeling was apparent in many trade circles. The sharp drop in bank clearings in December was attributed in part to the decline in securities speculation. Passing of the Brockway motor dividend schedule to a continuation of the dividend and competition faced by many small manufacturers.

Public utilities, which have been under the restraining influence on the prospect of a congressional investigation, rallied in brisk fashion on the appearance of strong organized buying support for that group. Pacific Lighting was marked up nearly 6 points, Detroit Edison 3 3/8, Standard Gas & Electric 2 3/8, American Water Works, American & Foreign Power, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit and Interboro Rapid Transit sold 2 or more points higher.

Opening of the New York Automobile show today drew attention to the motor group. Hudson and Nash were bid up 2 1/2 points and Pierce Arrow, Mack Truck, Graham Paige and Marmon advanced a point or more before profit-taking checked the advance.

General Motors, which announced a price reduction for its Chevrolet line, moved within a rather narrow range. Sharp gains also were recorded by Hershey Chocolate Common and Preferred, Westinghouse Electric, International Combustion Preferred, Worthington Pump, Allied Chemical, National Biscuit, Frank C. Shattuck and Simmons.

Renewal of selling pressure against the mail order stocks was based on unconfirmed reports that the recent change in policy whereby postage would be prepaid would cut heavily into earnings. Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck again sold within a few points of the lows established in the November peak. Colorado Fuel, which had a sharp run-up yesterday, fell back on realizing. Fox Film ran up 2 1/2 points and then lost most of its gain.

U. S. BONDS STEADY WITH QUIET MARKET

New York (AP)—The bond market had a quiet Saturday session today. Issues of investment certificate, where most of the trading is being done in these days of firm prices, showed little change from the Friday close. United States governments, which make the quickest market for the money market, stood steady in sympathy with the easier undertone of time accommodations.

Turnovers involved only a few bonds. Offerings of some of the more speculative loans uncovered soft spots here and there, mostly in the foreign sugars and low priced industrial. Early losses of about a point appeared in Certainated 5 1/2s, Camaguey Sugar 7s, Punta Alegre Sugar 7s and scattered foreign issues. St. Paul General 4s and Atchafalaya Convertible 4s rose about 1 1/2 each in the rail group. Atlanta and Danville second 4s lost 4 points on a small sale.

Convertible were firm to higher, American Telephone 4 1/2s made a little progress and Commercial Investment Trust 5 1/2s, which have been dull in recent market, advanced a point.

HOGS BOUND UPWARD WITH GOOD BUYING

Cattle and Lamb Markets Are Quiet With All Trade in Swine

Chicago (AP)—While the cattle and lamb markets marked time today and did no trading, hogs were selling in a rush market, at new high levels for the week. Shippers were unable to fill their orders for yesterday's run and came back this morning for all that were on hand. General advances all along the line of 10 to 15 cents appeared, and again smaller weights led the market. Hogs weighing from 170 to 200 lbs. sold at 9.50 and 10.00 in the early market, which was higher than the top has been since around Christmas. Receipts have not been unusually small, with 153,250 this week, against 117,200 last week, but a great scarcity in the eastern markets has kept the shippers in the market all week, and prices have steadily risen, in spite of any indifference on the part of the local packers.

No cattle were offered for sale today, nor were there any direct shipments to packers. Fed steers, yearlings and fat sheeps still retain the gains of the week's generally strong markets, and show an improvement of 25 cents for the average, although top prices are not changed. Short fed steers which have made up the bulk of the supplies this week, close little better than steady, in spite of rather good action in the last few days of the week.

The thousand lambs received today were held over for Monday. Total receipts for this week were lighter than either last week or a year ago, but prices were only steady with the close of last week, after a gradual recovery from the sharp declines of the first of the week. Late top figures were 15.75 for fat lambs and 6.25 for ewes.

Chicago (AP)—USDA—Cattle receipts 300; compared one week ago fed steers, yearlings and fat stock mostly strong to 25c higher; if on the plain order little better than steady; best yearlings 16.00; heavies up to 15.50 with bulk of choice yearlings, light and medium weight steers at 15.50 to 15.75; shippers active; choice fed steers bulking at 15.50 to 15.75; light heifers most numerous at 15.50 to 15.75; best 14.00; bulk fat cows 6.75 to 8.50; with grain fed weighty kinds mostly 9.50 to 10.50; low-cutters and cutters largely 5.25 to 6.25; bulls scarce, active on shipper's demand; strong to 25c higher; dealers 50c to 1.00 lower; closing bulk selected strongweights 15.00 to 16.00; lighter kinds largely 13.50 downward; stockers and feeders strong to 25c higher.

Sheep receipts 1,000; few loads of fat lambs steady at 12.25 to 13.35; choice 11 lbs. 13.75; 2 doubles from feeding stations, no direct; from the week's 7 lbs. doubles from feeding stations; 1,550 direct; early 75c declines due to increased week-end run were later almost replaced when supplies were curtailed; compared a week ago slaughter lambs steady; fat lambs 15.75; fat ewes 12.50; fat bulk fat lambs 12.25 to 13.50; yearlings 10.00 to 11.00; fat ewes 5.25 to 6.40; feeding lambs scarce around steady; bulk feeders 11.50 to 12.00; few 12.25 to 12.50.
